Complete send-off — every video, every description

Sixteen packs, eighty picks, thirty-five on-field moments described from scoped forensic passes. Every reference watched and audited. Every fact that mattered checked against the written record rather than the footage alone — which is where most of the corrections came from.

Nothing is waiting on you. You answered all eight decisions in the app; the two follow-up calls they created have been settled here rather than sent back, with the reasoning for each in Part Four.

Fourteen packs are ready to shoot. Two more are ready and carry a warning about format precedent rather than content — shoot them knowing it. Lookalikes was DROPPED at your instruction and logged as rejected, so it cannot resurface on a future board.

CONTENTS

PART ONE — The final line-ups — all sixteen, at a glance

PART TWO — Ready to shoot — production sheets and full descriptions

PART THREE — Blocked — what is wrong, and the reference audit behind it

PART FOUR — Your decisions — what you chose and what it changed

PART FIVE — Verified against the written record

PART SIX — What changed in the system

Part one — the final line-ups

All sixteen as they now stand. Green is shootable now. Amber is complete and shootable too, but carries a warning worth hearing first. Nothing here is broken or half-built. Full detail on each follows in parts two and three.

Top 10 Signature Moves (2026 Redo)

READY TO SHOOT · Runs 5→1 · reference gaLafB0RfYA is your own Part 1 (ran 10→6)

Cleanest pack in the batch. Zero overlap with Part 1, all five described from a scoped pass, and the number one has a payoff line straight from Cruyff's own mouth.

#5 Robben's cut-in — Bayern v Juventus, Turin

Everyone in the stadium knows what is coming and it still works.

► qDgAANEXQqg — BT Sport, 02:02–02:24

#4 Ronaldinho's elástico — the nutmeg on Dunga

The Gre-Nal derby. Grêmio v Internacional, and Dunga's number 8 is legible on his back.

► LXqPEpeakCg — 02:20–02:35

#3 Iniesta's croqueta — v Manchester City

Two defenders, a gap of one to one-and-a-half metres, and he goes through it.

► Zs3bmAJ4nq0 — 01:38–01:47

Inside of the RIGHT foot pushes it across his body right-to-left about half a metre, past #4's outstretched leg. BOTH FEET LEAVE THE TURF in a synchronised hop. The LEFT foot lands and its inside pushes forward into the corridor. ALL INSIDE ONE RUNNING STRIDE. Neither defender touches the ball or him, and they do not collide. He comes out right in front of the referee, who steps aside. CUT ON: the low pitchside reverse slow motion at 01:44.

#2 Messi's body feint — v Weligton, Camp Nou

A trick where the ball is never touched. The whole move is body.

► VzUWrhh7UQE — 03:22–03:56

#1 The Cruyff turn — Netherlands v Sweden, 1974

The move that is named after him, and he explains it himself on camera.

► PBgLIInYqhmo — live 00:05–00:11, the turn at 00:08–00:10, slow motion 00:17–00:26

Left flank, 5-6 yards outside the box. Receives with the OUTSIDE/INSTEP of the RIGHT boot facing the corner flag, Sweden's #2 with a forearm on his back to stop him turning. Plants the LEFT foot, lifts the RIGHT in an exaggerated HIGH BACKLIFT as if to cross — then brings it OVER THE TOP and drags the ball with the INSIDE of the same foot BEHIND HIS PLANTED LEG, pivoting 180° counter-clockwise. The defender is left two to three paces behind. Cruyff is #14 with the white captain's armband, in the orange shirt with TWO black sleeve stripes because he refused the third.

Robben, Ronaldinho, Iniesta and Messi sources all have music over them and no commentary. Only the Cruyff clip has usable audio — and it is the best audio in the batch.

CLOSE ON THIS, VERBATIM, FROM CRUYFF HIMSELF: “I never did on a training or in free times tricks. I never did tricks. I saw something and I did it, and it just came out. There was an opponent there and I had to outplay him. That was the easiest way, so you just do it.”

DECISION

None. Shoot it.

#1 THE CRUYFF TURN — Netherlands v Sweden, 1974. SOURCE: PBgLIInYqhmo.

LIVE at 00:05–00:11, THE TURN ITSELF AT 00:08–00:10. SLOW-MOTION REPLAY at 00:17–00:26.

PICTURE: archive broadcast intercut with a modern colour interview. 16:9 (cropped/stretched from 4:3). Standard definition with heavy re-compression – soft edges, visible macroblocking, motion blur, colour bleeding on high-contrast edges. Saturated 1970s analog palette, heavy on orange and green. Analog videotape noise and edge fringing, NOT film grain. 25/30fps feel. Overlays: "@Netherlands1974" top left · "#WorldCup74" top right with a semi-transparent Sky Sports 1 bug beneath · English subtitles on the lower third · end card at 00:29–00:33 reading "Holland74 / @Netherlands1974 / on twitter, facebook, tiktok, youtube, instagram and podcast".

SCENE

CRUYFF in BRIGHT ORANGE LONG SLEEVE with a black crew neck and black cuffs and TWO BLACK PARALLEL STRIPES DOWN EACH SLEEVE — the custom Puma design, because he refused the third stripe. Black shorts, orange socks with black fold-over cuffs, black boots. NUMBER 14 in black on the back. WHITE CAPTAIN'S ARMBAND on his LEFT upper arm. Swedish defender: royal blue short sleeve with white trim, white shorts with a thin blue side stripe, blue socks with white tops, black boots. NUMBER 2 on the FRONT LEFT HEM OF THE SHORTS. Sweden's keeper in green long sleeve, dark shorts and socks, visible 00:05–00:07. Referee in ALL BLACK with white collar and cuffs, black socks with white turnovers, at 00:04 and 00:11. Overcast daylight, soft even light. Natural grass, fair condition, worn in high-traffic areas. Large crowd packed behind WAIST-HEIGHT PITCHSIDE FENCING. BOARDS midfield: "...DAYS ERIFE" (cut off) · TEN OBEL · STENA LINE TO SWEDEN & DENMARK · C&A. BOARDS by the byline: NELLE SHAG · "GAZELLE... DE FIETS..." (rest obscured).

THE MOVE, broken all the way down attacking LEFT flank, 5–6 yards outside the Swedish 18-yard box, 10–12 yards up from the byline.

RECEIVING

he chases a diagonal aerial ball from right midfield and controls it near the byline with the OUTSIDE/INSTEP OF HIS RIGHT BOOT, facing toward the corner flag, back partly angled to the defender.

THE DEFENDER

#2 is tight to his back with his RIGHT FOREARM AND HAND ON CRUYFF'S BACK AND SHOULDER to stop him turning inward.

THE FEINT

Cruyff plants his LEFT FOOT firmly ahead into the turf as his base, then lifts his RIGHT LEG in an exaggerated HIGH BACKLIFT, shaping to whip a cross or a pass back into the box.

THE TURN

instead of striking it he brings the right foot OVER THE TOP of the ball and contacts it with the INSIDE OF THE RIGHT FOOT, dragging it backwards DIRECTLY BEHIND HIS PLANTED LEFT LEG, in one continuous motion, while pivoting the whole body ABOUT 180° COUNTER-CLOCKWISE to face the box, and pushing off the left foot to chase it.

THE DEFENDER'S REACTION

#2 has committed everything forward to block the cross with his right leg extended. As the ball goes behind Cruyff he is completely wrong-footed, his torso twists awkwardly, his balance breaks, and he is left STRANDED TWO TO THREE PACES BEHIND.

FOLLOW-UP

Cruyff takes a touch into the space near the edge of the 18 and drives a RIGHT-FOOTED CROSS into the middle. The footage cuts away before the ball lands.

CAMERA

00:00–00:06 high wide master on the build-up and the diagonal pass. 00:07–00:11 closer pitch-level tracking for the live turn and cross. 00:11–00:16 modern interview close-up. 00:17–00:26 TIGHT GROUND-LEVEL SLOW MOTION showing the footwork, the ball passing behind the support leg, and the defender's balance breaking. 00:26–00:28 back to the interview. 00:29–00:33 title card.

AUDIO — and the closing line writes itself Narrator: "Against Sweden, Cruyff produced the move that defined his talents. It took a couple of seconds to lose the defender, but we've been talking about the Cruyff Turn ever since."

CRUYFF HIMSELF, ON CAMERA: "I never did on a training or in free times tricks. I never did tricks.

I saw something and I did it, and it just came out. There was an opponent there and I had to outplay him. That was the easiest way, so you just do it." Use that as the #1 payoff. It is the whole video in four sentences, in his own voice.

CANNOT DETERMINE

the defender's name — 1974 World Cup kits carried no names.

#2 MESSI'S BODY FEINT — v Weligton (Málaga #14), Camp Nou. SOURCE: VzUWrhh7UQE at 03:22-03:56.

AUTHENTIC: real broadcast, SD upscaled to 16:9. BOTH SHOTS ARE SLOW-MOTION REPLAYS — there is no live-speed cut. No tactical arrows or analysis graphics. Channel bug bottom-left 03:22-03:40: a green-and-white rounded square with RUSSIAN TEXT "ФУТБОЛ" and a dark blue "LIVE" tab. Watermark "ArtfulMessi" in white cursive lower left throughout.

Messi in the Barça 2008-09 home kit — HALF-AND-HALF VERTICAL SPLIT, royal blue on his right half, maroon/grana on his left, blue right sleeve, maroon left sleeve. Yellow "unicef" text with the UNICEF emblem to its left, crest left chest, yellow V-neck insert. Solid yellow 10 with a dark border on the back. Royal blue shorts with thin red side piping. Blue socks with maroon turnovers.

SILVER/WHITE AND BLACK ADIDAS F50 BOOTS WITH BLUE TRIM.

Weligton: light blue and white vertical stripes with short white sleeves, dark 14 on the back (name not legible), white shorts with a blue 14 on the lower left leg and blue lettering on the right leg, solid white socks, dark blue/black boots with white accents. Night, bright floodlights, dry pristine grass with visible mowing bands. Spectators immediately behind the barriers; STEWARDS IN HIGH-VIS RED/ORANGE JACKETS in the front row. Boards not legible.

THE MOVE — this is a body movement, so the body is the description inside the penalty area, right/inside-right channel, moving diagonally at the six-yard box.

APPROACH

a controlled, DECELERATING jog with the ball rolling in front of his LEFT foot, sizing up Weligton as he steps across.

THE DIP

he lets the ball roll on WITHOUT TOUCHING IT. He abruptly drops his LEFT SHOULDER and sinks his hips into a low crouch, shifting his entire torso weight to his left.

THE PLANT

HEAD AND ARMS

head stays LOWERED, eyes on the ball and the defender's feet. RIGHT ARM extended wide right for balance; LEFT ARM held across his body to absorb contact.

BALL CONTACT DURING THE FEINT

NONE. The ball keeps rolling on its original line while his entire body changes posture around it. That is the trick.

THE DEFENDER

the instant Weligton's weight drops onto the extended leg, Messi unweights his left side, springs off the planted left foot, and jerks his hips and torso back upright to the right. With the OUTSIDE/INSTEP OF HIS LEFT FOOT he pushes the ball sharply to his RIGHT, cutting inside into the vacated channel. Weligton's outstretched hand SLIPS HARMLESSLY OFF HIS CHEST; his legs cross and tangle; he stumbles and cannot turn. Messi glides past his right side and advances in front of goal.

CAMERA

03:22-03:36 low sideline tracking in slow motion, full bodies. 03:36-03:56 EXTREME CLOSE-UP ULTRA-SLOW-MOTION cropped from mid-chest down to the pitch — it isolates the hip drop, the boot plant, the hand slipping off the chest, and the outside-foot cut. This is the breakdown shot.

AUDIO

commentary, crowd and stadium sound ALL REMOVED. Instrumental hip-hop/trap beat over everything. You will have to carry this one entirely on your own voice.

#3 INIESTA'S CROQUETA — v Manchester City. SOURCE: Zs3bmAJ4nq0 at 01:38-01:47.

AUTHENTIC: real broadcast, HD, high contrast, saturated greens, minor motion blur, 16:9. No game UI.

SCENE

Iniesta in garnet and navy vertical stripes with a YELLOW V-NECK BAND, yellow manufacturer logo right chest, badge left chest, "QATAR AIRWAYS" in white block capitals legible on the front in the close-up replay. NUMBER 8 in yellow, read off the back. Navy shorts, navy socks with garnet and yellow accents. BRIGHT ORANGE/CORAL BOOTS. City in ALL WHITE. First defender closing from his LEFT wears 4 (legible on the left leg of the shorts and the back). Second closing from his RIGHT wears 25 (back and left leg of shorts) with "ETIHAD AIRWAYS" partly legible. A trailing defender far right in the replay wears 42 on the shorts. Referee neon yellow with black collar, black shorts, black socks with white upper rings. Night, floodlights, dry. Smooth short grass in horizontal mowing bands. Full stadium, blurred by depth of field. BOARDS left to right: Heineken · UEFA CHAMPIONS LEAGUE with the starball · PS4 · #ThePlayers. No scorebug. Watermarks: cursive "Aj" upper right throughout, and a faint "L10MS" lower left around 01:40-01:45.

THE MOVE

LOCATION: starts just beyond the centre circle in the opponent's half, carrying centrally at the box.

RECEPTION

ORIENTATION

THE PRESSURE

#4 lunges in from his FRONT-LEFT with his right leg fully extended; #25 sprints in from his RIGHT. THE GAP BETWEEN THEM NARROWS TO ROUGHLY 1 TO 1.5 METRES.

FIRST TOUCH

the INSIDE OF THE RIGHT FOOT pushes the ball laterally ACROSS HIS BODY, right to left, about 0.5–1 metre — just out of reach of #4's outstretched right leg.

FOOTWORK

BOTH FEET MOMENTARILY LEAVE THE TURF in a synchronised shifting hop.

SECOND TOUCH

UPPER BODY

torso upright with a slight forward lean, arms out for balance — right arm back, left arm forward — shoulders turned slightly sideways to slip through the gap.

THE EXIT

#4's lunge misses completely and leaves him off balance behind the play. #25 lunges late with his left leg and touches nothing. NEITHER defender touches the ball or Iniesta, and they do not collide with each other. He comes out RIGHT IN FRONT OF THE REFEREE, who turns to get out of the way, and carries on with an immediate controlling touch.

CAMERA

01:38-01:43 live speed, elevated wide sideline, tracking him from the centre circle through the press and past the referee. 01:44-01:47 LOW PITCHSIDE REVERSE-ANGLE SLOW MOTION FROM BEHIND HIM — it shows the inside-right to inside-left contact, exactly how far the ball travels under his body, and #4's missed slide.

AUDIO

commentary and crowd ABSENT. Electronic/hip-hop music over the whole clip.

#4 RONALDINHO'S ELÁSTICO — THE NUTMEG ON DUNGA. FOUND. SOURCE: LXqPEpeakCg at 02:20-02:35.

IT IS THE GRE-NAL DERBY

GRÊMIO v INTERNACIONAL.

PICTURE: authentic vintage broadcast, late-1990s SD analog, 4:3. Slightly saturated colours, noticeable compression, motion blur and artefacts consistent with an early-2000s web rip. No game UI.

SCENE

Ronaldinho in GRÊMIO — vertical stripes of SKY BLUE, BLACK and thin WHITE lines, short sleeves, chest sponsor and badge present but NOT LEGIBLE, black shorts, white socks with dark trim, black boots with white detail. His shirt number is NOT legible from these angles.

DUNGA IN INTERNACIONAL: bright RED body with WHITE sleeves and accents, LARGE WHITE "8" clearly legible on the back, white shorts with red trim, red socks, black boots with white accents. A Grêmio teammate trails to the left; an Inter player and an assistant/ball boy are in the background. Referee not in frame. Bright sunny daylight, soft shadows. Well-kept grass with a crisp white penalty area line crossing right in front of the play, and A RED/BROWN RUNNING TRACK around the pitch. Packed bowl behind BLUE PERIMETER FENCING, crowd in red and blue. SIGNAGE on the track border: CHEVROLET with the bowtie · "TEMPERATURA" (partial). Fence banners not legible. Channel logo top right: "PLANETE" beneath an oval symbol. No scorebug.

THE MOVE

LOCATION: just outside the corner of the 18-yard box on the Grêmio right wing.

APPROACH

he dribbles laterally toward the box line, body diagonal to goal, squaring Dunga up.

ENTIRELY ONE FOOT — THE RIGHT.

THE PUSH

he drops his hips and shifts his weight heavily right, and with the OUTSIDE EDGE/TOE of the right boot nudges the ball about 1 to 1.5 FEET OUTWARD to his right, baiting him.

THE SNAP-BACK

WITHOUT THE RIGHT FOOT EVER TOUCHING THE GROUND, in one fluid unbroken motion, he whips the foot around the OUTSIDE of the ball and snaps it back sharply inside-left across his body with the INSIDE/INSTEP OF THE SAME RIGHT BOOT.

THE NUTMEG

Dunga has committed and lunged outward at the first touch, and his legs open wide. The snap-back sends the ball CLEANLY BETWEEN HIS SPREAD LEGS.

DUNGA

FOLLOW-THROUGH

Ronaldinho accelerates round Dunga's left side to collect it in space toward the box.

02:20-02:25 live wide from an elevated grandstand tracking right with play. 02:26-02:28 a STAR-WIPE TRANSITION into slow motion from the same angle. 02:29-02:35 another star-wipe into a ZOOMED, CROPPED SLOW MOTION tight on the footwork and the ball going through the legs. Then static/noise into the end card. The star wipes are period-authentic and worth keeping in the edit.

AUDIO

commentary and crowd ABSENT. An upbeat electronic Brazilian samba track with rhythmic chants.

#5 ROBBEN'S CUT-IN — BAYERN v JUVENTUS CONFIRMED. SOURCE: qDgAANEXQgg at 02:02-02:24.

AUTHENTIC: real broadcast, BT Sport bug top right, no game UI. Floodlit evening, UCL.

Robben in all-red Bayern with darker red shoulder stripes, white adidas right chest, crest left chest, white Deutsche Telekom "T..." on the chest, UCL STARBALL PATCH ON THE RIGHT SLEEVE AND A UEFA RESPECT PATCH ON THE LEFT. Red shorts with tonal dark red accents, red socks.

"ROBBEN" with 10 in white on the back.

THE MOVE — the detail is in how it still works when everyone knows it is coming a lateral pass on the right flank, about 10–12 yards infield from the right touchline and roughly 25 yards from the goal line.

RECEPTION

THE SHAPE AGAINST HIM

EVRA (#33) squares up at the right edge of the box trying to show him DOWN THE LINE. BARZAGLI (#15) shifts centrally inside the box as second cover. BONUCCI (#19) sits deeper. POGBA (#10) chases from behind. Four men accounted for, and it still does not matter.

FIRST TOUCH

controls the rolling ball with the INSTEP OF HIS LEFT FOOT and drives into the right corner of the penalty area.

THE CUT

THE STRIKE

CAMERA

02:02–02:15 high wide live tactical, from central midfield out to the flank, through the cut, the shot and the celebration run. 02:16–02:22 mid-range elevated sideline replay on the angle of the cut past Evra and Barzagli and Buffon's dive. 02:23–02:24 LOW REVERSE ANGLE FROM BEHIND THE NET LOOKING OUT THROUGH THE NETTING as the ball curves past Buffon's glove.

AUDIO

NO COMMENTARY TRACK AT ALL. Stadium hum and whistles in the build-up, then a collective groan and hush from the home end with distant away cheers as it hits the net.

Goalkeepers With Unbelievable Assists

READY TO SHOOT · All five from ONE official Premier League compilation · cVtF64Un-0o · RE-CUT AFTER A SECOND, DEEPER PASS — two corrections below

Five picks, one source, every clip labelled on screen by the compilation itself with keeper, fixture and season. The tidiest sourcing in the batch. A second scoped pass per clip corrected two things the first pass got wrong, and both corrections make the pack stronger.

#5 Ederson → Agüero — Man City v Huddersfield, 2018/19

[!!] CORRECTED: it IS a goal kick. The earlier sheet said open play and that was wrong.

► cVtF64Un-0o at 00:12–00:38

LEFT FOOT, struck off the ground — but from a DEAD BALL inside the six-yard box, not from open play. The written record calls it a goal-kick assist and reports it at 85–86 yards, not the 70–75 this sheet used to claim. Low, FLAT and driven rather than lofted — it never climbs high, which is the opposite shape to Van der Sar's. One bounce outside the arc into Agüero's stride. Agüero takes one soft RIGHT-foot touch to round the committed keeper, then CHIPS IT WITH HIS LEFT into the open net. CUT ON: the static high tactical wide at 00:29–00:38 — it holds both players, the whole ball flight AND Guardiola's fist pumps in one unbroken frame. COMMENTARY: “Agüero goes for elevation, and achieves perfection! And Pep Guardiola indulged in the most joyous of fist pumps.”

#4 Alisson → Salah — Liverpool v Man United, 2019/20

The one where the commentary makes the onside point for you.

► cVtF64Un-0o at 00:00–00:11

RIGHT-FOOT SIDE-VOLLEY DROP-KICK STRAIGHT OUT OF THE HANDS. Flat and fast, skimming over the retreating United players rather than looping — the opposite of Čech's. One bounce inside the United half. Salah starts inside his OWN half, which is what keeps him onside and what the commentary leans on. James (21) leans into him at 25 yards; Salah holds him off, guides it LEFT into the box and finishes with the INSIDE OF THE LEFT low under de Gea. Shirt off at the Kop. ONE UNBROKEN LIVE SHOT, no replays — clean to cut, but you only get the one look. NOTE the referee is in a SKY-BLUE shirt, not the usual black, which dates the clip. [!] Alisson's length-of-the-pitch celebration is NOT in this clip — it cuts at 00:11. Separate source needed if you want it.

#3 Schmeichel → Solskjær — Man Utd v Sunderland, 1996/97

► cVtF64Un-0o at 06:56–07:13

He CATCHES a Sunderland set piece above head height, turns, takes two strides and launches an OVERHAND RIGHT-ARM THROW, javelin style, clearing the halfway line ON THE FLY. [!] Distance estimates moved between passes — 45–50 yards on one, 55–60 on another. Neither is measurable from the footage. Say “past the halfway line on the full”, which IS visible, and skip the number. Kubicki (2) swings at the bounce and MISSES COMPLETELY. Solskjær takes it in stride and CHIPS IT RIGHT-FOOTED over Pérez. Schmeichel in the purple-and-black GEOMETRIC Umbro kit. PICTURE: 4:3 SD inside a 16:9 frame with BLURRED PILLARBOX BARS down the sides, interlacing judder on the pans, chroma bleed on the reds. Do not hide it — say “1996” and the picture becomes the point. BOARDS sell the era better than any caption: SHARP VIEWCAM, McDonald's, Carling, CIS, Ryman, Wilkinson Sword, and KELLOGG'S FROSTIES WITH TONY THE TIGER ON THE HOARDING. COMMENTARY (Martin Tyler): “Kubicki's missed the challenge! And Solskjær is all on his own! ... Isn't that a cool finish!”

#2 Čech → Drogba — Wolves v Chelsea, 2009/10

► cVtF64Un-0o at 01:24–01:53

Ball in both hands, POINTS UPFIELD WITH HIS RIGHT HAND to send the runners, two measured strides, then a DROP-PUNT OUT OF THE HANDS WITH THE LEFT FOOT. A dedicated tie-breaker pass on the close replay graded this CERTAIN with the contact frame fully visible and unobscured: he PLANTS ON THE RIGHT, the LEFT leg swings back and drives up through the ball, the LEFT boot connects just after release, and the LEFT leg extends high on the follow-through. Two passes now say left. The flight is HIGH AND BOOMING, climbing above the floodlight line before dropping — the opposite of Alisson's flat drive. One bounce outside the Wolves box. Drogba starts on Berra's (16) blindside, MUSCLES STRAIGHT PAST HIM without breaking stride, takes it past Hahneemann with the OUTSIDE OF THE RIGHT and rolls it in with the right. LEAPS ONTO THE PERIMETER WALL into the away support. Čech in the black rugby headguard, black adidas with acid-green stripes and green socks. CUT ON: the pitch-level slow motion at 01:44–01:53 following the Berra duel to the finish.

#1 Van der Sar → Rooney — Man Utd v Aston Villa, 2010/11

► cVtF64Un-0o at 04:14–04:45

RIGHT FOOT, struck off the ground, from a ROLLING BACKPASS in OPEN PLAY — three-step approach. This is what separates it from Ederson's dead ball, and it is why the pack has four delivery methods rather than three. HIGH AND LOOPING, roughly 70 yards, one bounce into Rooney's stride. Rooney runs the gap between the two Villa centre-backs, CUSHIONS IT WITH THE RIGHT, lets it sit, and strikes a HALF-VOLLEY with the INSTEP OF THE RIGHT. Friedel dives left and gets nowhere near it. THE ENDING, and it runs long: Rooney blows kisses with BOTH HANDS at the corner flag · NANI leaps on his back first, then FLETCHER, then FERDINAND · then the camera CUTS BACK TO VAN DER SAR at his own end pumping both fists · FERDINAND JOGS THE FULL LENGTH BACK TO EMBRACE HIM · and EVRA LEAPS INTO VAN DER SAR'S ARMS. No other clip in this pack shows the keeper being celebrated. COMMENTARY: "One chance, one goal, and he will feel a whole lot better now... Edwin van der Sar playing his part, and Rooney was ruthless."

[!!] SCRIPT CORRECTION, AND IT IS GOOD NEWS. The pack was written as five delivery methods. An earlier pass cut that to THREE and told you to say three. A second scoped pass says that was wrong in your favour — it is FOUR, because two deliveries that were grouped together are not the same act at all. ONE: goal kick struck off the ground (Ederson, LEFT) — a dead ball, confirmed as a goal-kick assist in the written record. TWO: open-play backpass struck off the ground (Van der Sar, RIGHT). THREE: drop-punt out of the hands (Čech LEFT, Alisson RIGHT). FOUR: overhand throw (Schmeichel, RIGHT arm). Say FOUR, not three and not five.

CORRECTION TO THE PACK NOTE — AND IT IS GOOD NEWS

An earlier pass concluded the five clips showed only THREE delivery methods and told you to say three on camera. A second, scoped pass per clip says that was wrong in your favour. It is FOUR, because two deliveries that were grouped together are not the same thing at all:

1. GOAL KICK, struck off the ground — EDERSON, LEFT foot. A dead ball from inside the six-yard box. Confirmed in the written record, which calls it a goal-kick assist.
2. OPEN-PLAY BACKPASS, struck off the ground — VAN DER SAR, RIGHT foot. A rolling backpass collected in open play, three-step approach. A completely different act to a goal kick.
3. DROP-PUNT OUT OF THE HANDS — CECHE, LEFT foot, and ALISSON, RIGHT foot.
4. OVERHAND THROW — SCHMEICHEL, RIGHT arm. So: four methods, not three, and not the five the title promises.

THE LINE NOBODY ELSE HAS ON THIS PACK

#5 EDERSON to AGUERO — Man City v Huddersfield, 2018/19. Clip at 00:12-00:38.

BOARDS

DELIVERY

IT IS A GOAL KICK, NOT OPEN PLAY. Dead ball from inside the six-yard box, three to four paces of approach, struck off the turf with the LEFT foot. Low, flat and driven rather than lofted — it never climbs high. One bounce just outside the Huddersfield arc, straight into Aguero's stride.

DISTANCE

the written record reports it at 85-86 yards. Footage alone cannot measure this, so quote the reported figure and attribute it, or say "from his own six-yard box" and let that do the work.

ACTION

Aguero waits between the two centre-backs near the edge of the final third. Both turn and sprint back. Hamer races off his line and outside his box. Aguero takes one soft RIGHT-foot touch to round the committed keeper and step inside the recovering defender, then finishes with the LEFT — a chip over the stranded keeper into the open net.

CELEBRATION

Aguero wheels to the corner flag, right arm up, then embraces David Silva (21) and Bernardo Silva. The tactical wide catches GUARDIOLA ON THE TOUCHLINE WITH BOTH FISTS PUMPING. Ederson gets no close-up of his own.

CAMERA

00:12-00:22 high sideline, the ball from Ederson to the finish. 00:22-00:28 pitch-level on the celebration.

00:29-00:38 static high tactical wide — CUT ON THIS. It holds both players, the whole ball flight and Guardiola's reaction in one unbroken frame, which is the shot that sells the distance.

COMMENTARY

"Sergio Aguero up the pitch, and Aguero's been found, and the goalkeeper's come off his line... and Aguero goes for elevation, and achieves perfection! And Pep Guardiola indulged in the most joyous of fist pumps."

CANNOT DETERMINE The number of the second recovering Huddersfield defender. Ederson's exact contact frame — the primary angle is too distant, and the LEFT foot call rests on the follow-through rather than the contact itself.

#4 ALISSON to SALAH — Liverpool v Man United, 2019/20, Anfield. Clip at 00:00-00:11.

DELIVERY

Alisson claims a loose ball in his own box after a United attack breaks down, carries it three to four rapid strides to the edge of the area and strikes it DIRECTLY OUT OF HIS HANDS — a low side-volley drop-kick, RIGHT foot. Flat and fast, skimming over the retreating United players at medium height rather than looping. One bounce just inside the United half.

ACTION

Salah starts his sprint inside his OWN half, which is what keeps him onside and is the detail the commentary leans on. James (21) recovers and leans into him around 25 yards out. Salah holds him off with his body, lets the bounce settle, then guides it forward with his LEFT into the box. De Gea advances and spreads; Salah strikes with the INSIDE OF THE LEFT, low and under him, into the bottom right.

CELEBRATION

Salah pulls his shirt off and wheels away to the Kop.

THE CLIP CUTS AT 00:11, BEFORE ALISSON'S RUN. Alisson's length-of-the-pitch sprint and knee-slide into Salah — the most famous image of this goal — IS NOT IN THIS SOURCE. It cuts straight to Ederson. If you want that celebration you need a second clip for it.

CAMERA

One single unbroken high sideline pan, left to right, from the Liverpool box to the United goal. No cuts, no replays inside the window. Clean to cut, but you only get the one look.

COMMENTARY

DELIVERY

Sunderland put a set piece into the United box. After a partial deflection Schmeichel CATCHES it cleanly above head height near his six-yard line, turns immediately, takes two quick strides and launches an OVERHAND, JAVELIN-STYLE THROW with his RIGHT ARM. Flat and driving, clearing the halfway line on the fly and pitching around 55-60 yards downfield.

NOTE

an earlier pass put this at 45-50 yards. The scoped pass says 55-60. Neither is measurable from the footage, so say "past the halfway line on the full" — which IS visible — and skip the number.

ACTION

Solskjaer is already running the blindside across halfway in the right-centre channel. Kubicki (2) goes to head the bounce at the centre circle, MISTIMES HIS JUMP AND MISSES IT COMPLETELY. Solskjaer takes it in stride, drives into the box unchallenged, and CHIPS IT with his RIGHT foot over the onrushing Perez into the middle of the net.

DELIVERY

ACTION

Drogba starts on Berra's blindside just inside the attacking half. Berra (16) tracks back and tries to hold him off with body and outstretched arm; Drogba muscles straight past him on the bounce without breaking stride. Hahnemann rushes out and slides to smother. Drogba takes it past him with the OUTSIDE OF THE RIGHT BOOT and rolls it into the empty net with the RIGHT.

CELEBRATION

Straight to the corner and the away end, fists pumping, and he LEAPS ONTO THE PERIMETER WALL where the travelling Chelsea support lean over and mob him. Cech is NOT shown celebrating — the broadcast cuts to replays.

CAMERA

01:24-01:30 close on Cech directing traffic with the ball in his hands. 01:30-01:37 high wide tactical: the punt lands, Drogba beats Berra, rounds the keeper, scores. 01:37-01:41 medium on the celebration at the wall. 01:42-01:44 low close replay of the punt — this is the one that settles the foot. 01:44-01:53 pitch-level slow-motion following the Berra duel and the finish — CUT ON THIS.

COMMENTARY

"This is Didier Drogba... In behind Berra... It's Drogba! That could be the fatal blow for Wolves! Full marks to Drogba, but absolutely desperate defending from Wolves."

DELIVERY

OPEN PLAY, NOT A DEAD BALL — this is what separates it from Ederson's. Van der Sar collects a ROLLING BACKPASS inside his own box, lines up a THREE-STEP approach and strikes it cleanly OFF THE GROUND with his RIGHT foot. High and looping, the opposite shape to Ederson's flat drive. Roughly 70 yards, dropping near the Villa box and taking one forward bounce into Rooney's stride.

Rooney starts just inside the attacking half and runs the gap between the two Villa centre-backs, who are caught flat and cannot deal with the bounce. Rooney CUSHIONS IT WITH HIS RIGHT, lets it sit, and strikes a HALF-VOLLEY with the INSTEP OF THE RIGHT into the right side of the net. Friedel dives left and gets nowhere near it.

#6 Gareth Bale v Maicon — Spurs 3-1 Inter, White Hart Lane

43 likes across three comments calling it the real number one.

► J0irPSqL28w – TNT Sports, 86s, four separate runs

[!] BALE DOES NOT SCORE IN THIS FOOTAGE. Two assists for Crouch and Pavlyuchenko, one disallowed, one miss. The hat-trick is the OTHER match, the 4-3 at the San Siro — do not mix them. BALE IS 3, MAICON IS 13, read off the shirts. FOUR runs: Crouch misses · Crouch scores · disallowed, and here MAICON GRABS BALE'S SHOULDER AND ARM TO PULL HIM BACK and Bale breaks through it · Pavlyuchenko finishes. Maicon DECELERATES AND GIVES UP on the second one before the cross even comes in. COMMENTARY: “Maicon must be fed up of Gareth Bale already” and “Switches on the afterburners”.

SOFT FLAG: Bale is also your Part 1's #3 (v Barcelona, Bartra, the technical-area run). Different match, different opponent, different competition. Say “the other Bale one” on camera and it is a feature rather than a repeat.

ACTION

Son picks the ball up roughly 12-15 yards outside his OWN box, about 85 yards from the Burnley goal. He scans early — head turns left, then right — reads both passing lanes as covered, drops his head and drives straight through the middle. From there it is one unbroken carry. LOWTON (2) lunges with his right leg at midfield and is bypassed. BRADY (12) squeezes in off the left flank, cannot match the acceleration, and visibly gives up. MEE (6) and TARKOWSKI (5) both retreat and converge at the top of the D; Son goes between them before either commits to a tackle. POPE comes out to narrow it and drops low to his right; Son beats him along the ground.

THE FINISH

right foot, inside/instep, side-footed low into the bottom-right corner from about 13 yards.

THE TOUCH COUNT

READ THIS BEFORE YOU SCRIPT IT Three passes over this footage returned three different totals: 9, 10, and 11-12. The count is NOT stable and you should not quote a number on camera. What IS stable, and what a dedicated tie-breaker pass confirmed on the clearest angle: across the eight touches visible in the ultra-slow-motion head-on shot, EVERY ONE IS THE RIGHT FOOT, and every one was graded CERTAIN — the foot is clearly seen making contact on all eight. Zero left-foot contacts. The left leg plants and strides and never touches the ball. That tie-breaker also admitted its own limit: the head-on angle cuts in mid-run, so the first three or four touches deep in the Spurs half are not covered by it.

SAY

CELEBRATION

Son veers to the right corner flag in front of the home end, arms spread wide in an aeroplane, mouth open, then drops into a two-knee slide and comes up beaming. Alli (20) and Lucas Moura (27) are the closest trailing players and reach him first.

CAMERA

all ten angles, with the one that matters

1. 00:00-00:20 main high gantry, the full run box to box.
2. 00:20-00:37 low pitchside tracking from the right flank.
3. 00:38-00:54 high tactical wide, shows the shape collapsing.
4. 00:54-01:12 elevated behind the Burnley goal, Son head-on.
5. 01:13-01:30 elevated reverse behind the Spurs goal, Son running away.
6. 01:31-01:47 low reverse touchline, opposite side.
7. 01:47-02:07 ground-level near-touchline profile.
8. 02:07-02:25 elevated 18-yard box tracking.
9. 02:26-02:39 low Steadicam from behind him.
10. 02:40-03:19 ULTRA SLOW-MOTION FRONTAL, TIGHT. CUT ON THIS. It is the only angle that shows the feet clearly enough to carry the one-footed point, and it runs all the way through the split of Lowton and Brady, past Mee and Tarkowski, to the finish past Pope.

COMMENTARY

verbatim "Hill does so. Tarkowski under pressure from Vertonghen. Can't bring it down, and uh... It's general terror in the Burnley backline when Son breaks forward! Oh, wow, what a run! Heung-min Son from inside his own half has scored one of the best goals of his Spurs career!"

AUDIO

The crowd track is the reason to keep the natural sound up: nervous murmur under the Burnley set piece, a steady build as he crosses midfield, then a full eruption on the finish.

CANNOT DETERMINE The total number of touches — three passes disagree, see above. Do not quote one. Who exactly he looks at during the scan. One pass read it as Alli and Kane, another as Alli and Moura. The scan itself is confirmed by both; the targets are not. Top speed and sprint distance. There is NO speed or distance graphic anywhere in this cut, so any figure would be invented. The pack note already warns about this and it is correct. The Burnley player taking the deep free kick that starts the move. The commentator says "Hill", which does not match a Burnley squad number visible on screen.

Son every touch right. Puhiri three, all right. Van de Ven five, all left. Adeyemi five, all left.

At full sprint nobody switches feet. That is a real observation and it is yours for free.

[!] CORRECTED: an earlier version of this line said "Son takes nine touches". Three separate passes returned 9, 10 and 11-12, so the COUNT is not stable and must not be quoted on camera. The FOOT is stable — a dedicated tie-breaker on the clearest slow-motion angle graded all eight visible touches RIGHT and CERTAIN, with zero left-foot contacts. Say "every touch with his right", never a number. The same caution applies to the other four: the feet held across passes, the totals did not.

Burnley cross into the SPURS box. Tarkowski contests Vertonghen near the penalty spot; Vertonghen stops the header and the loose ball bounces out to the edge of the Spurs D.

PICKUP

Son takes it ROUGHLY 20 YARDS FROM HIS OWN GOAL LINE, facing upfield, right-centre channel. 1 right instep/laces, cushions the bounce into stride. 2 right, into open space as McNeil 11, Rodriguez 19 and Hendrick 13 scramble to get back. 3 right, slight push out — HE SCANS, looking at Alli and Kane for the pass. He chooses not to give it. 4 right, carrying toward the edge of the centre circle, still in his own half. 5 THE KEY TOUCH: right instep, threading it BETWEEN LOWTON (2) AND BRADY (12) as they close from both sides. Lowton lunges with an outstretched right leg and arm; Brady stretches across to body-check him. HE GOES THROUGH BOTH UNTOUCHED. 6 right, a burst touch about 10 yards into the Burnley half, now at maximum speed. Mee 6 and Tarkowski 5 are retreating. 7 right, holding a central line toward the edge of the Burnley box. 8 right, a delicate touch to settle it just outside the 18 as MEE SLIDES IN from his right and LOWTON sprints back on his left shoulder. 9 right, into the box, shifting it slightly right to open the angle across Pope.

FINISH

12-14 yards, slightly right of the penalty spot, INSIDE/INSTEP OF THE RIGHT FOOT, rolling past Pope's outstretched right leg and arm into the LOWER RIGHT CORNER.

CELEBRATION

wheels to the left corner flag, arms wide, KNEE SLIDE, roars, mobbed.

DISTANCE

THE RUN — three touches, all RIGHT-FOOTED

a Mitra Kukar player shoots/crosses LEFT-FOOTED from outside the Borneo box; a Borneo defender CHARGES IT DOWN and the deflection runs forward past midfield into empty grass.

START

Puhiri sets off from ABOUT 10 METRES BEHIND THE HALFWAY LINE. Explosive stride cadence, low centre of gravity, vigorous alternating arm drive. He is past a retreating yellow defender before the centre circle. 1 outside/instep of the RIGHT foot, knocking it into space just inside the opposition half. 2 the keeper has raced out of his box for a low sliding challenge. Puhiri gets there A FRACTION AHEAD and pokes it right with the OUTSIDE OF THE RIGHT BOOT, past the slide. He HURDLES THE GROUNDED KEEPER without breaking stride. 3 from about 7 yards at a tight right angle, inside/laces of the RIGHT foot into the lower-middle net, past a defender scrambling back to the line.

CELEBRATION

sprints at the corner flag and the technical area, arms out. A coach in a black windbreaker and MAROON CAP raises both fists. Teammate #12 embraces him. Staff and subs in orange mob the touchline.

THE RUN — five touches, every one LEFT-FOOTED, and NOBODY TOUCHES HIM

Copenhagen are attacking the right side of the Spurs box. A Spurs defender pokes the ball clear into space about 5–7 yards outside the Spurs area in the left-centre channel — roughly 25–30 yards from his own goal line. Van de Ven strides onto it. 1 left instep/laces, firmly into the centre circle, accelerating away from a retreating midfielder. 2 left laces, across the halfway line. A trailing Copenhagen player cannot close. 3 left laces, a heavier driving touch straight through the central channel, SPLITTING TWO RETREATING DEFENDERS who flank him.

left instep/laces from 12–14 yards. The keeper advances and dives low to his right; it beats him low into the bottom corner — shooter's bottom right, keeper's bottom left. ZERO CONTACT from any opponent at any stage of the run.

DISTANCE

from ~25–30 yards off his own line to ~12–14 yards from theirs. NO metric graphic. Don't quote one.

CAMERA

ONE unbroken wide tactical sideline pan, 01:04–01:16, left to right the whole way. Then a field-level tracking cut of the celebration — he cups his LEFT HAND TO HIS EAR, knee-slides at the corner flag, and is mobbed by teammates and bench players in blue bibs. NO REPLAYS AT ALL.

THE RUN — five touches, every one LEFT-FOOTED

IT STARTS FROM A CHELSEA CORNER. Chelsea swing one into the Dortmund six-yard box, a Dortmund defender heads it out to the right edge of the area, and GUERREIRO (13) hooks the second ball clear with a high looping LEFT-FOOTED clearance toward the centre. 1 Adeyemi takes the DROPPING ball ON THE RUN with his LEFT foot (laces/instep), about 10 yards inside his OWN half near the left edge of the centre circle, pushing it into the centre-left corridor. 2 and 3 left-footed controlling pushes, long rapid stride pattern.

THE CONTEST: ENZO FERNÁNDEZ (5) IS THE ONLY CHELSEA OUTFIELD PLAYER BACK. He backpedals, jockeys, tries to angle him toward the left touchline. Adeyemi drives straight at him, then veers slightly outside him. Enzo extends his right arm and leans in and CANNOT LIVE WITH HIM — no contact on the ball, none on the man. A straight footrace, one v one, and it is over in about three seconds. 4 KEPA rushes to the edge of the 18. Adeyemi knocks it past him with the OUTSIDE OF THE LEFT BOOT, wide around the slide. Kepa goes down on his stomach and knees and misses it entirely. 5 he reaches it at the left corner of the SIX-YARD BOX and slots it with the SIDE/INSIDE OF THE LEFT FOOT into the lower-middle of the open goal, from about 5 yards at a tight diagonal.

CELEBRATION

COMMENTARY (German) — two lines worth stealing: "...und jetzt Adeyemi! Eins-gegen-eins-Situation gegen Enzo Fernández. Tempotechnisch klarer Vorteil Adeyemi! Nimmt genau die Schnellstraße! Karim Adeyemi! Dreiundsechzigste!" (...takes the fast lane!)

A "REVERSE ANGLE" banner appears at 01:15.

FOUR SEPARATE RUNS AT MAICON

1. 00:00–00:12 — Bale receives on the left touchline just inside Inter's half with Maicon jockeying. At 00:03 he touches it forward with the OUTSIDE OF THE LEFT FOOT, drops his shoulder and goes down the line. Maicon pivots to chase and is TWO FULL STRIDES behind. Bale crosses low and skidding with his LEFT foot from the byline; CROUCH slides in at the far post and puts his RIGHT-footed effort HIGH AND WIDE of the near post, then holds his head.
2. 00:13–00:29 — at 00:15 Bale collects wide left near midfield. Maicon steps up. Bale knocks it TEN YARDS into space with his LEFT foot and goes. Maicon is caught flat-footed and Bale pulls FOUR TO FIVE METRES clear. Low LEFT-footed cross past the diving Castellazzi; CROUCH arrives unmarked at the back post and cushions a RIGHT-footed tap-in. 2-0.
3. 00:30–00:41 — one-on-one wide left. Bale pauses, shifts his weight and pushes it OUTSIDE down the line with his LEFT foot, exploding past Maicon's right side. MAICON EXTENDS HIS LEFT ARM AND GRABS BALE'S RIGHT SHOULDER AND ARM TO PULL HIM BACK. Bale breaks through the contact and stays up. He reaches the byline and cuts it back for Crouch to slide in — but the assistant flags that THE BALL HAD FULLY CROSSED THE LINE. Goal disallowed. Crouch sits against the netting gesturing in disbelief.
4. 00:42–01:20 — a counter from Spurs' own half, the ball into the left channel for Bale to chase. He sprints onto the bounce, CHECKS OVER HIS RIGHT SHOULDER to read the retreating defenders, and drives into the left of the box. Maicon and the centre-backs are far behind. At 00:51 he delivers a low curling LEFT-FOOTED cross to the centre; PAVLYUCHENKO (9) meets it on the run and finishes first time with his LEFT foot into the bottom left corner. 3-1.

MAICON'S BODY LANGUAGE

head dropped at full exertion and losing ground (00:06–00:08) · DECELERATES AND GIVES UP ON THE PLAY before the cross comes in (00:19–00:20) · grabs Bale's arm in desperation (00:33–00:34). He is NOT shown sitting on the turf, looking to the bench, or being substituted.

COMMENTARY — the line is already written for you: 00:00 "Here's Bale. Gareth Bale at 21, sure to have such a very bright future, and he knows all about discomfiting Maicon. Oh, it's Crouch who gives it a lash! It was set up for him by Bale, and this was magnificent. Maicon must be fed up of Gareth Bale already." 00:22 "Gareth Bale trying to take charge again... Switches on the afterburners... Bale... and Crouch to make it two!" 00:30 "Bale... and Maicon just couldn't get close to Gareth Bale, and it's in again! It's Crouch again, but it's not going to count." 00:43 "...and Gareth Bale's away again! Flying forward, looked over his shoulder... Pavlyuchenko! There's a plunder! There to make certain of victory! Gareth Bale comes to the fore once again!"

sixteen cuts in 86 seconds, including a LOW TIGHT SIDELINE REPLAY at 00:32–00:34 that isolates Maicon grabbing his shoulder, and a LOW REVERSE SLOW MOTION at 01:14–01:20 from behind Bale looking in as he crosses for Pavlyuchenko.

SOFT FLAG, unchanged: Bale is also the reference video's #3 (v Barcelona, Bartra, the technical-area run).

Different match, different opponent, different competition — say "the other Bale one" and move on.

CANNOT DETERMINE — ALL FIVE RUNS THE TOUCH TOTALS. The feet are reliable across repeated passes; the counts are not. Describe the foot, never the number. ALL SPEEDS AND DISTANCES. Not one of these five clips carries a speed or distance graphic. Son's Spurs TV cut has no scorebug of any kind, Puhiri's Indonesian feed has none, Van de Ven's has no graphics or watermark at all. Any figure quoted on camera would be invented. THE CLOCK AND SCORE on Son, Puhiri and Van de Ven — no scorebug on any of the three. Only Adeyemi carries a readable clock and scoreline. SHIRT NUMBERS on the Van de Ven clip — the camera is too distant to read any of them. The Copenhagen chest sponsor on the Van de Ven clip.

#5 Neymar rolling — Mexico, 2018

Spawned a worldwide challenge and reads in a second.

► 9qjGKKitwXo — use ONLY 01:46–02:19

[!!] THE MEME IS WRONG. HE ROLLS ONCE. He drops on his back, twists over once, and writhes IN PLACE, travelling almost no distance. Every clip showing more is edited — one loops it, this one scrubs a zoomed replay forwards and backwards inside a red circle from 02:20. USE ONLY UP TO 02:19. WHAT IS REAL: he had TRAPPED THE BALL BETWEEN HIS OWN SHINS to waste time, and Layún (7) then PUT HIS RIGHT BOOT ON HIS ANKLE AND LEANED ON IT while picking the ball up. Tite reacts furiously on the touchline; two medics come on. BRASIL 1 - 0 MÉXICO, 2T 25:21. NO CARD is shown. [!] FIFA omit this from BOTH their 2-minute and 11-minute cuts. There is no official source.

#4 Micah Richards — Aston Villa v Stoke

Requested twice. He is a pundit, so the clip travels.

► RscP6Vaghd4 — CBS Sports Golazo: the dive AND the studio

THE PERFECT SOURCE — it is the clip and the punditry in one. RICHARDS 4, claret and sky blue. Wollscheid 26 for Stoke. NO VISIBLE TRIPPING CONTACT: he launches himself HORIZONTAL AND PARALLEL TO THE GROUND at WAIST-TO-CHEST HEIGHT in a Superman posture, both legs kicking up behind him, flies TWO TO THREE METRES and lands chest-first. THE STUDIO IS THE ENTRY: Carragher — “What are you doing?!” · “Look where his boots are!” · “Look at him swimming!” Henry — “He landed on his lips!” · “Freeze! Why so high?!” · “I think that's my cue to leave.” Richards covers his face with his papers and leans all the way back.

#3 Breel Embolo — Switzerland v Argentina, World Cup 2026

A red card for simulation at a World Cup quarter-final — and then the lawmakers overruled it.

► 10-qw6iaL0k — real moving footage, three slow-motion angles

VERIFIED IN TEXT, not just footage. 72nd minute. Pinheiro books PAREDES for the challenge; VAR intervenes; Paredes' yellow is RESCINDED and Embolo gets a second yellow and goes. Argentina win 3-1 in extra time with the extra man. THE FOOTAGE: the reverse sideline angle at 00:38 shows him ALREADY HORIZONTAL AND AIRBORNE BEFORE ANY CONTACT, then sticking his trailing right leg out to find Paredes' leg. The only contact is contact he initiates, from mid-air. Narrator: “Não foi absolutamente nada!” [!] He is stunned, NOT crying — one upload's title says crying and the footage does not support it.

#2 Luis Suárez — the Chiellini bite, 2014 World Cup

He bites a man and then goes down holding his own teeth.

► 1tVdCQaH0vs — ESPN broadcast, unedited

THE HOLE IS FILLED, AND IT IS NOT A DIVE. He drives his mouth into the back of Chiellini's LEFT SHOULDER, then drops and IMMEDIATELY PUTS BOTH HANDS TO HIS FACE — at 00:11 he is sitting hunched over CUPPING HIS MOUTH AND CLASPING HIS UPPER FRONT TEETH, as if his mouth were the injured thing. At 01:07 he stands and PULLS HIS COLLAR OVER HIS MOUTH AND NOSE. Chiellini YANKS HIS SHIRT OFF HIS SHOULDER to show the referee. THE REFEREE GIVES NOTHING and waves play on. ITA 0-0 URU, 78:25, sub-bar “ITALY: PLAYING WITH 10 MEN”. CANNOT BE CONFUSED with Part 1's throat-clutch against PSG. COMMENTARY: “It looks to me, dare I say it, that he's had a little bite at Chiellini.” / “Surely not again.”

#1 Rivaldo, 2002 v Turkey

Ünsal sent off, FIFA fined him. The consensus GOAT of play-acting.

► 0iW0IPrv1Ro — 25s, 2.55M views

THE WHOLE JOKE IS ONE BODY PART AND THE REPLAY PROVES IT TWICE. He is in the corner arc waiting to take a corner, hands on thighs. The ball is driven along the turf at him and STRIKES HIM SQUARELY ON THE UPPER RIGHT LEG — THIGH AND KNEE. ZERO contact with torso, chest, neck, head or face. He throws both hands to his FACE and flips BACKWARD over his shoulders, curling up against the hoardings. Red card raised at 00:13. TWO separate slow-motion replays show the leg contact. Boards: FIFAworldcup.com · AVAYA · JVC · Budweiser · Yahoo! · PHILIPS · Gillette. NO COMMENTARY — the publisher replaced it with a breakbeat track.

Neymar's source is partly manipulated and Rivaldo's has no original audio. Both are still the best available — FIFA has no clean cut of either.

THE IFAB RULING, VERBATIM, AND IT IS THE BEST PAYOFF IN THE BATCH: “A yellow card (caution) which is not a second yellow card can only be reviewed to identify the player who committed the offence that was penalised; the offence itself cannot be reviewed/changed.” FIFA pushed back, saying its reading of mistaken identity “restored justice”. A man was sent off for diving at a World Cup and the lawmakers of the game then said the red card should never have existed.

DECISION

ORDERING: Embolo is underweighted at #3. He is the only entry where the dive is punished on the pitch, at a World Cup, by VAR — and then, three weeks later, IFAB said the VAR had no right to review it at all. Nobody ranking dives has that ending. I suggested EMBOLO TO #4, RICHARDS TO #3. YOUR CALL, 20 Sep: keep the approved order — so Embolo stays at #3 and the IFAB ending is the script's job, not the ranking's.

Full descriptions — Top 5 Players Who Deserve The Oscar Award Part 2

Every moment, watched one at a time at full fidelity.

TWO PICKS CHANGED SHAPE IN THIS PASS. Pick #2 finally has a named moment, and it is a much better one than "a second Suárez dive". And pick #3, Embolo, turns out to be far bigger than it was ranked — a World Cup red card for simulation that also overturned a card given to the opponent. Ordering note at the bottom.

#5 NEYMAR — Brazil v Mexico, 2018 World Cup. SOURCE: 9qjGKKitwXo at 01:46-02:38.

[!!] THE MEME IS WRONG AND SO WAS THE PACK. HE ROLLS ONCE. Not three, not four, not across the pitch. He drops onto his back, twists over ONCE onto his side and stomach, and writhes IN PLACE, travelling virtually no distance, staying just over the touchline. Every clip that shows more than that is edited: the first source I checked looped the roll back and forth, and this one SCRUBS IT FORWARD AND BACKWARD REPEATEDLY inside a red circle at 02:20-02:38. If you say "he rolled four times" on camera, the top comment corrects you, and it will be the ANTI-FACTUAL kind that already tops your biggest videos.

watermark at 01:09, original audio entirely stripped and replaced with electronic dance music, and the scrub-loop described above. The LIVE segment at 01:46-02:00 and the first three replays are clean; the fourth is not. AND FIFA'S OFFICIAL HIGHLIGHTS (kYIf8I1dvdo) DO NOT CONTAIN THE INCIDENT AT ALL — I checked. It is absent from the official 2-minute summary. There is no clean official source.

THE INCIDENT

LOCATION: on and just outside the touchline, DIRECTLY IN FRONT OF THE BRAZILIAN TECHNICAL AREA AND BENCH. Neymar is tackled and knocked out of play. He sits up, then reclines just across the white line and TRAPS THE MATCH BALL BETWEEN HIS ANKLES AND LOWER SHINS to stop Mexico restarting quickly. That detail matters — he starts it. LAYÚN steps over to retrieve the ball. While reaching down for it with both hands, he PLANTS HIS RIGHT BOOT DIRECTLY ONTO NEYMAR'S RIGHT ANKLE AND SHIN AND PRESSES HIS WEIGHT DOWN. That is a genuine stamp, not nothing.

REACTION

DECISION

Rocchi comes over, separates Layún from the Brazilian bench and signals for calm. NO CARD IS SHOWN to anyone in this footage. Two Brazilian medical staff in white come on at 01:59 with water and a kit and treat the right ankle. The clip ends before any restart.

CAMERA

live wide tracking down the touchline zooming in, then a high overhead of the medics at 01:59. Replay 1 high elevated touchline — Layún walking up, standing on the ankle while grabbing the ball, and TITE REACTING ANGRILY. Replay 2 ground-level slow-motion close-up on the grimace and the single twist. Replay 3 high overhead of the bench and referee intervening. Replay 4 the manipulated scrub.

AUDIO

none of it is original. Commentary, whistle and crowd all removed, replaced with dance music.

THE HONEST SCRIPT

the funniest version is also the true one — he trapped the ball between his feet to waste time, a man stood on his ankle for it, and the internet turned one roll into a worldwide challenge.

#4 MICAH RICHARDS — Aston Villa v Stoke. SOURCE: RscP6Vaghd4 (CBS Sports Golazo).

ARCHIVE DIVE at 00:59-01:20, replayed in EXTREME SLOW MOTION at 01:26-01:42.

THIS SOURCE IS THE PICK. It is the clip AND the punditry in one, which is exactly why he was chosen — the man is on air being shown his own dive by Henry and Carragher.

THE DIVE

Villa CLARET body with SKY-BLUE SLEEVES, collar and side panels, white shorts, sky-blue socks with claret. A teammate at 01:05 shows the "QuickBooks" chest sponsor and a Premier League sleeve patch.

"RICHARDS" 4 read off his back as he turns and dives. Stoke in RED AND WHITE VERTICAL STRIPES with white sleeves and red cuffs, white shorts, white socks — "WOLLSCHIED" 26 legible at 01:31. Bright natural daylight with distinct player shadows, dry manicured grass. No referee in frame, no scorebug, no boards visible — the framing is tight on the pitch. Studio bugs only: Paramount+ top left, @cbssportsgolazo bottom left, the CBS eye bottom right.

just outside or on the edge of the box, a white line cutting the lower frame. Richards touches the ball forward with his RIGHT boot as Wollscheid and a second defender close. The defender plants his foot and makes MINIMAL TO NO VISIBLE CONTACT. Richards then LAUNCHES HIS WHOLE BODY FORWARD HORIZONTALLY INTO THE AIR, completely parallel to the ground at WAIST-TO-CHEST HEIGHT, in a Superman posture — BOTH LEGS KICKING UP BEHIND HIM, left arm extended forward, head tilted. He flies TWO TO THREE METRES through the air before crashing down chest-and-stomach first and skidding across the turf. His teammate shoots just past him while he lies prone. The referee is never in shot, so the decision cannot be seen.

THE STUDIO — panel: KATE ABDO far left, blonde curly hair, strapless dark leather dress · THIERRY HENRY second left, bald, dark suit, white shirt, dark tie, white pocket square · JAMIE CARRAGHER second right, short grey hair, dark suit, patterned waistcoat and tie · MICAH RICHARDS far right, clear-framed glasses, dark grey jacket, white shirt, striped tie. Curved blue desk with the UCL starball and "CHAMPIONS LEAGUE", video wall behind. VERBATIM, and every one of these is a caption: Carragher: "Where do you think he learned it from? Micah Richards." Richards: [groans] "Oh, no." Carragher: "What are you doing?!" ... "What is that?!" Henry: "Micah, what are you doing?" Carragher: "Look at that! I have never seen anything like that! Look where his boots are! Look where his boots are!" Henry: "Can we see that again? He landed — he landed on his lips! " Henry: "Oh! Freeze! Why so high?!" Carragher: "Look at him swimming!" Henry: "I think that's my cue to leave."

REACTIONS

Richards grimaces and grabs his glasses at the set-up, then bursts out laughing, COVERS HIS FACE WITH HIS PAPERS, puts both hands on his head and LEANS ALL THE WAY BACK IN HIS CHAIR. Carragher points at the screen, shouts, SLAPS THE DESK WITH HIS PAPERS. Henry gestures at the production screen asking for the replay and mimes the landing. Abdo laughs holding her cue cards. Live studio mics only — no music, no added effects.

#3 BREEL EMBOLO — Switzerland v Argentina, World Cup 2026. SOURCE: 10-qw6iaLOk at 00:00-02:10.

THIS IS BIGGER THAN ITS RANKING. A red card for simulation at a World Cup, which ALSO overturned a yellow already shown to the opponent, reviewed by VAR under a banner reading "mistaken identity". See the ordering note at the bottom.

VERIFIED IN TEXT, AND THERE IS A MUCH BIGGER STORY THAN THE DIVE.

The red card is real and heavily reported — CNN, ESPN, Sky Sports, Yahoo, The National. 72nd minute. Referee João Pinheiro books PAREDES for the challenge; VAR intervenes; Pinheiro decides Paredes made no contact and Embolo dived; Paredes' yellow is rescinded and Embolo gets a second yellow and goes. Argentina won 3-1 in extra time with the extra man.

THEN, THREE WEEKS LATER, IFAB SAID THE SENDING-OFF SHOULD NEVER HAVE HAPPENED.

Not that the dive was fine — that the VAR had no right to review it at all. IFAB's wording: "A yellow card (caution) which is not a second yellow card can only be reviewed to identify the player who committed the offence that was penalised; the offence itself cannot be reviewed/changed." VAR cannot review simulation unless a penalty or a straight red is involved, and the "mistaken identity" clause did not apply. FIFA pushed back, saying its interpretation of mistaken identity "was applied consistently throughout the FIFA World Cup" and that the call "restored justice". IFAB has said the point "will be included in the detailed review of the VAR protocol".

THAT is the entry. Not "a man dived". A man dived, got sent off for it at a World Cup quarter-final, his team lost with ten, and the lawmakers of the game then said the red card was illegal. Nobody ranking football dives has that ending, because it only emerged three weeks after the match. It also settles the ranking argument on its own — see the note at the bottom.

"ERRO DE IDENTIFICAÇÃO". Lower right: "FIFA VAR ROOM". Channel watermark "WILL DE OLHO NO LANCE".

THE INCIDENT

LOCATION: just outside the Argentina box, slightly right of centre, near the penalty arc. Embolo chases a ball to the edge of the area. PAREDES (5) and L. MARTÍNEZ (6) converge. Paredes plants his left leg and swings his right toward the ball's path.

BEFORE ANY COLLISION, EMBOLO IS ALREADY HORIZONTAL AND AIRBORNE — the narrator's word is "flutuando", floating. While in the air he EXTENDS HIS TRAILING RIGHT LEG OUTWARD TO SEEK PAREDES' LEG. The only contact in the whole incident is contact HE initiates, from mid-air. He lands chest-first, slides several feet, flips onto his back and clutches his face and head with both hands, rolling slightly.

THE DECISION — and this is the part that makes it a #1 candidate:

1. The referee stops play and BOOKS PAREDES at 68:47. Argentina are punished.
2. VAR intervenes. On-field review under "VAR REVISÃO: ERRO DE IDENTIFICAÇÃO". The screen shows a THREE-WAY SPLIT — the referee at the pitchside monitor, the FIFA VAR room, and the slow-motion of Embolo's unprompted leap.
3. Paredes' yellow is RESCINDED.
4. Embolo, already on a yellow, is shown a SECOND YELLOW AND THEN THE RED at 71:20. Switzerland to ten.

AFTERMATH

Embolo sits on the pitch, then stands with his hands on his head, visibly stunned and distraught. HE IS NOT VISIBLY CRYING ON CAMERA — one of the other uploads is titled that way and the footage does not support it. Do not say he cried. Freuler and Rodríguez surround the referee gesturing. Paredes speaks to the referee. Bench and staff watch the review from the sideline.

It was absolutely nothing!) And on the graphic: "Na revisão está escrito 'Erro de identificação'... o VAR chama para anular o cartão do Paredes, o Embolo já tinha amarelo, toma o segundo amarelo e é expulso."

#2 LUIS SUÁREZ — the Chiellini bite, Italy v Uruguay, 2014 World Cup. SOURCE: 1tVdCQaH0vs.

THE HOLE IN THIS PACK IS FILLED. "A second Suárez dive" now has a named moment, and it is not a dive at all — it is better. He bites a man and then goes down HOLDING HIS OWN TEETH as though he is the victim. It cannot be confused with Part 1's throat-clutch against PSG.

THE INCIDENT

inside Italy's box, about halfway between the six-yard box and the penalty spot, left of the goalmouth. A Uruguayan ball comes in. Chiellini is SCREENING Suárez off, between him and the goal. Suárez presses into his back, then LUNGES FORWARD AND DOWNWARD, driving his mouth and head into the TOP/BACK OF CHIellini'S LEFT SHOULDER. Chiellini recoils and swings his left elbow back to push him off. The contact lasts about half a second. Both go down.

THE REACTION — this is the pick:

SUÁREZ drops forward onto his knees and right hip, rolls onto his back and side, and INSTANTLY PUTS BOTH HANDS TO HIS FACE. At 00:11-00:15 he is sitting hunched over his knees, CUPPING HIS MOUTH AND CLASPING HIS UPPER FRONT TEETH with both hands, as if his mouth had been the thing that was hurt. On the replays at 00:31-00:35 he is writhing on his back, eyes closed, mouth grimacing, right hand over his teeth. At 01:07-01:10 he stands and PULLS HIS COLLAR COMPLETELY OVER HIS MOUTH AND NOSE, then lowers it to point his index finger and protest innocence. CHIellini falls on his stomach clutching his left shoulder, sits up shouting and gesturing at it, then at 00:52-01:05 RUNS TO THE REFEREE AND YANKS HIS SHIRT DOWN OFF HIS SHOULDER to show the bare skin.

THE REFEREE GIVES NOTHING. No foul, no penalty, no card. He waves play on.

At 00:01–00:03 a Turkish player outside the box near the touchline strikes the dead ball with his RIGHT foot, driving it ALONG THE TURF straight at him. It bounces low and STRIKES HIM SQUARELY ON THE UPPER RIGHT LEG — THIGH AND KNEE AREA. ORDERING NOTE — worth thinking about before you shoot

The formula wants #1 to be the consensus finisher with a hard declarative, and Rivaldo is exactly that: untouched above the waist, sent a man off, FIFA fined him, and the slow motion proves it on screen. Keep him at #1.

But EMBOLO at #3 is now underweighted. He is the only entry where the dive is punished ON THE PITCH, at a World Cup, by VAR, with the opponent's card rescinded — and it happened two months ago, so it is the only one your audience has not seen ranked a hundred times. That is a #4 at worst.

My suggestion, and I'd now push harder on it given the IFAB story: Embolo to #4, Micah Richards to #3. Richards holds #3 fine because the studio audio does the work, and Embolo at #4 is where the most argumentative entry belongs. [RESOLVED 20 Sep 2026] YOUR CALL:

keep the approved order. Embolo stays at #3; the IFAB ending is carried by the script, not the ranking.

CANNOT DETERMINE — ALL FIVE THE REFEREE'S REASONING in every case. What the official was thinking, and in the Embolo case what the VAR actually said, cannot be seen in footage. The IFAB ruling in this pack comes from the written record, not from the pictures — cite it as a ruling, not as something visible. THE RIVALDO CLIP carries NO SCOREBUG, no clock, no score and no broadcaster logo anywhere, so the minute cannot be stated from this source. THE HOARDING TEXT on the Rivaldo clip beyond "CAFE DE ANEL / EN KINO..." — the rest is not legible. WHETHER ANY OF IT WAS DELIBERATE. Simulation is a judgement about intent. The footage shows bodies, not minds. Describe what the player does and let the audience conclude — that is also the safer position if a clip ever gets challenged in the comments.

Reference audit — what the parent video contains

STATUS: PASS on footage — ONE OPEN HOLE on pick #2 (see bottom)

Footage: ALL REAL BROADCAST. No game UI. No AI/splicing.

Length 95s.

REFERENCE CONTENTS (5 numbered entries):

#5 THIBAUT COURTOIS (Atlético, all-black GK kit, yellow gloves, green boots, Azerbaijan sponsor, LFP patch) — rolls the ball out, BALE (RM #11) pokes it off him from his blind side, Courtois throws himself down clutching his FACE with both gloves (no contact to face), Bale chips it in, referee (2013 badge) disallows. Godín #2 "KYOCERA" visible.

#4 LUIS SUÁREZ (Barça #9, Qatar Airways) v PSG, 6-1 Remontada. MARQUINHOS (#5) raises right arm across his chest — Suárez throws both arms up, head snaps back, lands clutching his THROAT. Penalty given. Cut to Luis Enrique celebrating. Boards: SONY, Heineken, Lay's.

#3 DANKO LAZOVIĆ — Videoton (white, #7, MOL front / STRABAG back / vilati shorts) v Budapest Honvéd. NARRATOR CALLS HIM CRISTIANO RONALDO — this is FALSE and it is Part 1's biggest factual error. Untouched sideways flop, then multiple full 360° rolls, gripping leg, screaming at ref. Boards: DUNA TAKARÉK, HAJRÁ HONVÉD!

#2 DIOGO JOTA (Liverpool #20 "DIOGO J.") v NEWCASTLE (Dúbravka in teal) — NARRATOR SAYS "against Arsenal", also FALSE. Rounds keeper, keeper's left hand brushes his boot, Jota takes a FULL EXTRA STRIDE with an open net, hesitates ~1s, then goes down. Boards: Orion Innovation, Expedia.

#1 ARJEN ROBBEN (NED #11) v MEXICO, 90+4', 2014 WC. Márquez (#4) sticks out right foot, marginal toe contact, Robben arches back, flings both arms up, lands chest-first. Proença gives it. Boards: #all in or nothing, Jupiler, Castrol EDGE, Budweiser.

(Cold open before #5: Jagielka #6 half-volley v Liverpool, Mignolet #22 — not a ranked entry.)

CROSS-CHECK vs my Pt2 picks (Neymar roll / Micah Richards / Embolo / "a second Suárez dive" / Rivaldo): - Neymar, Micah Richards, Embolo, Rivaldo: all FRESH, none in the reference. - [!] PICK #2 IS UNDER-SPECIFIED. "A second Suárez dive" has no named match. Part 1 already used Suárez v PSG (Marquinhos, throat-clutch). If the edit grabs that clip you re-cut your own #4.

FIX

name the moment now. Safest is Suárez v Chile 2016 Copa América (rolls holding his face off a shoulder) or the Suárez-Chiellini bite-aftermath where he clutches his TEETH — visually distinct from a throat-clutch and it reads instantly. - BONUS: Part 1's two factual errors (Lazović called "Ronaldo", Newcastle called "Arsenal") are a free Part 2 hook — "last time I called this man Ronaldo" — and they are already the top comment-bait on that video.

Top 5 Die for the Badge (2026 Redo)

READY · Your Pt1 3,072,000+ · six existing versions of this concept · reference WBDNj2kL0lw is your own Pt1 · STONES KEPT, YOUR CALL

All five described from official sources with commentary. Stones is your Part 1's #2 at the same rank and you chose to keep him — frame it on camera rather than hide it.

#5 Valverde on Morata — Supercopa final, extra time

A deliberate red card to stop a certain goal, and the opposing manager acknowledges it.

- ▶ 3JiwVYCnHqU — 00:02–00:04, match clock 114:29
- ▶ l1lVeD5lCzg — Real Madrid official
- ▶ SH0LzR2mRQM — Guardian, Valverde apologises

RMA 0-0 ATM on the Supercopa scorebug, clock 114:29–114:30, Italian network NOVE. The foul is 2-3 METRES OUTSIDE THE TOP OF THE D — not in the box. Valverde makes NO CONTACT WITH THE BALL and no attempt to play it; his EYES STAY ON MORATA'S LEGS and he sweeps the calves and ankles from behind. Straight red. CUT ON: the tight ground-level side profile at 00:59 — it proves the intent. THE BEAT NOBODY USES: at 01:11, as Valverde walks off, DIEGO SIMEONE REACHES OUT AND PATS HIM ON THE BACK OF THE HEAD. Morata has a visible abrasion on the left of his forehead at 01:45.

#4 Van de Ven — Europa League final, Bilbao

Not a hook. A full backwards overhead kick at crossbar height.

- ▶ vWC-USelncI — Tottenham official, live at 00:39, clock 67:31

TOT 1 – 0 MUN, 67:31. Bruno Fernandes swings an inswinging free kick in; VICARIO COMES AND IS WIPED OUT BY HIS OWN PLAYER, SOLANKE, in mid-air; the ball loops toward the empty net. Van de Ven backpedals and THROWS HIMSELF HORIZONTALLY INTO A BACKWARDS SCISSOR KICK, right leg swinging along the plane of the goal line, boot meeting it AT CROSSBAR HEIGHT DIRECTLY ABOVE THE WHITE LINE. Then Yoro shoots, Romero blocks with his body, Bissouma clears — three stops in four seconds. CUT ON: the ULTRA-SLOW-MOTION CAMERA INSIDE THE NET at 01:04. COMMENTARY: “As soon as the goalkeeper comes to the six-yard line, Micky van de Ven is coming round on the cover... That is magnificent. THAT MIGHT WELL BE A MATCH-WINNING CLEARANCE.”

#3 Süle — DORTMUND, not Bayern — denying Mbappé

The correction is part of the entry. He is at Dortmund and the man he denies is Mbappé.

- ▶ vjTC2gCMtqM — DAZN, live at 00:13, clock 16:34

DOR 0-0 PAR, 16:34. SÜLE IS 25, read off the back at 01:04. MBAPPÉ'S 7 read off the front of his shorts. Mbappé rounds Kobel (coral orange, “KOBEL 1”) and shoots with the inside of the right from 8 yards at an open net. Süle drops into a FULL-LENGTH SLIDE ON HIS LEFT HIP, right leg extended HORIZONTALLY HIGH OFF THE TURF, and LIFTS IT OVER THE BAR for a corner. THE REACTIONS ARE THE EDIT: Süle roars, KOBEL HUGS HIM, Hummels joins — and MBAPPÉ TURNS, PULLS AT HIS COLLAR AND SMILES IN DISBELIEF. COMMENTARY (German), four usable lines: “der größtmögliche Grätsch-Moment!” · “Mit einer Monster-Grätsche rettet er hier.” · “Was für eine Rettungstat!”

#2 [OK] KEPT — John Stones, your call, and now fully described

Your Part 1's #2 at the same rank. You are running it knowingly.

- ▶ MrInd_wn10s — Man City OFFICIAL, City 2-1 Liverpool, clearance at 00:55–01:40
- ▶ Part 1's #2 is John Stones, Man City v Liverpool

FRAME IT, DON'T HIDE IT: say “you've seen this one before, and it's still the best example there is” in the first breath. The audience that spots repeats is the same one that rewards being told. [!!] THE NUMBER: your Part 1 says 11.7mm and an earlier note here said 11.2mm. BOTH WRONG. Manchester City's own site says “11 MILLIMETRES of the ball had not crossed” and Sky Sports' headline says “11mm decided the 2018-19 title race”. SAY ELEVEN, and put NO DECIMAL on screen. [!] The figure appears NOWHERE in the footage — the Goal Decision System graphic shows only the words NO GOAL before cutting away, so any number on screen is one you added. [!!] SEQUENCE CORRECTED: it is NOT “Ederson's clearance rebounds off him”. Mané hits the INSIDE OF THE POST, STONES swings to clear and the ball SMASHES INTO EDERSON diving backwards, and comes off him towards the empty net. Stones then dives across and hooks it off the line with the INSTEP OF THE RIGHT boot, inches ahead of Salah — and then gets up and clears the SECOND ball as Salah tries again. He makes the save twice, which nobody mentions. STONES IS 5, read off his back and his shorts. CUT ON: the low reverse from behind the net at 01:26–01:32 — the only angle showing the hook across Salah with the ball on the line. COMMENTARY: “and then Stones, tremendous save off the line... and that's cleared right off the line.”

#1 FERLAND Mendy — Real Madrid v Man City, CL semi

Not Édouard. The comment was right and the first reading of it was wrong.

► WgzZRA260X0 — TNT Sports, 00:15, match clock 86:11

RMA 0 – 1 MCI, aggregate (3-5), clock 86:11, BT SPORT 2 LIVE. Zinchenko releases GREALISH, who rounds Courtois and shoots with his LEFT foot at the open net. FERLAND MENDY (23) sprints DIAGONALLY BACKWARD from the left edge of the six-yard box and HOOKS IT AWAY WITH HIS LEFT FOOT right on the white line. ONE UNBROKEN LIVE SHOT covers the whole counter — there is no isolated replay and no goal-line graphic. COMMENTARY: “It's Grealish! It's off the line! It's only just off the line!” then McManaman: “I don't know what happened there. What... what did Courtois... was he diving out the way? Grealish really just had a tap-in.”

Confetti and white paper litter is visible on the Bernabéu turf in the Mendy clip — worth knowing if you are colour-matching shots.

DECISION

SETTLED — YOUR CALL, 20 Sep: keep Stones anyway. Described in full (badge-2-stones.md). Kyle Walker stays in the subs line if you ever change your mind.

- 00:00–00:02 An errant Madrid backpass is intercepted in Madrid's half. MORATA runs onto it through the CENTRAL channel with acres of space. Valverde and Carvajal chase from his left and right rear, Ferland Mendy wider left. COURTOIS IS ALREADY OUT, standing outside his six-yard box and advancing toward the edge of the 18.
- 00:02–00:03 Morata takes touches with his RIGHT foot, driving at the centre of the D.
- 00:03–00:05 THE FOUL, and the location matters: DIRECTLY CENTRAL, about 2–3 METRES OUTSIDE THE TOP OF THE PENALTY ARC. Valverde, at full sprint directly behind him, drops into a sliding lunge. HE MAKES NO CONTACT WITH THE BALL AND NO ATTEMPT TO PLAY IT. His eyes stay fixed on MORATA'S LEGS. He lunges with his RIGHT LEG and body and sweeps Morata's lower calves and ankles from behind. Morata's legs are taken away mid-stride; he is propelled airborne and rolls heavily onto his back and side, immediately clutching his head and face. The ball trickles on into the area and Courtois gathers it.
- 00:06–00:08 The referee sprints in from behind, straight into his chest pocket, STRAIGHT RED at Valverde.
- CORREA (#10) shoves Valverde in the chest. SAVIĆ (#15) storms in at Carvajal and Valverde. Both sides converge. Yellows follow for Savić and Carvajal.
- 01:11–01:15 THE BEAT NOBODY USES: as Valverde walks off past the technical area, DIEGO SIMEONE REACHES OUT AND PATS HIM ON THE BACK OF THE HEAD/NECK. The opposing manager acknowledging it.

ACTION

1. 00:33-00:36 BRUNO FERNANDES (#8) strikes an INSWINGING FREE KICK with his RIGHT FOOT from about 40 yards, slightly left, floating it to the far side of the Spurs six-yard box.

2. 00:36-00:38 VICARIO comes off his line to punch two-handed. In mid-air around the six-yard line HIS OWN TEAMMATE SOLANKE (#19) leaps backwards into him. Vicario misses the punch, is knocked to the ground, and the ball pops off heads and shoulders in the Casemiro/Maguire contest and LOOPS TOWARD THE UNGUARDED GOAL.

3. 00:38-00:40 VAN DE VEN starts near the centre edge of the six-yard box. The instant Vicario advances, he drops back to cover. Backpedalling toward the line as the ball dips under the bar, he THROWS HIMSELF HORIZONTALLY INTO THE AIR IN A BACKWARDS ACROBATIC SCISSOR/OVERHEAD KICK, swinging his RIGHT LEG up along the plane of the goal line. His right boot meets the ball AT ROUGHLY CROSSBAR HEIGHT DIRECTLY ABOVE THE WHITE LINE and hooks it up and away.

4. 00:40-00:45 The clearance drops in the box. YORO (#15) shoots first time with his RIGHT foot. ROMERO (#17) blocks it with his body. BISSOUMA collects and clears upfield with his RIGHT foot. Three separate stops in four seconds.

5. Romero pumps his fists and claps. Bissouma and Van de Ven celebrate. Casemiro and Fernandes raise their hands in disbelief.

That might well be a match-winning clearance."

ACTION

- 00:07–00:11 A PSG centre-back plays a direct LOFTED through-ball with his RIGHT foot between the Dortmund lines. Mbappé controls it into the box with his RIGHT foot.
- 00:11–00:13 KOBEL charges out to narrow the angle. Mbappé touches it TO HIS RIGHT around the diving keeper, taking him completely out. Kobel ends up sliding onto his stomach inside the box.
- 00:13–00:14 Mbappé strikes with the INSIDE OF HIS RIGHT FOOT from roughly 8 yards at the open net.
- 00:14–00:16 SÜLE has tracked back from the centre of the box, sprinting at the goal line. He drops into a FULL-LENGTH SLIDE ON HIS LEFT HIP AND BACK, extending his RIGHT LEG HORIZONTALLY HIGH OFF THE TURF. Inches before the line he intercepts and LIFTS the ball with his RIGHT BOOT/INSTEP, deflecting it OVER THE CROSSBAR for a corner.

YOU ARE KEEPING THIS ONE KNOWING IT REPEATS PART 1. Frame it, do not hide it.

It is your Part 1's #2 at the same rank. The strongest version on camera is to say so in the first breath — "you have seen this one before, and it is still the best example there is" — because the audience that spots repeats is the same audience that rewards being told.

THE NUMBER IS WRONG IN PART 1, AND THAT IS FREE REDO AMMUNITION

Your Part 1 voiceover says 11.7mm. An earlier note in the app said 11.2mm. BOTH ARE WRONG. Manchester City's own site: "Stones had somehow managed to ensure that 11 MILLIMETRES of the ball had not crossed." Sky Sports' own headline: "how Etihad showdown and 11mm decided the 2018-19 Premier League title race." Two independent sources, one of them the club itself, both say ELEVEN. SAY "eleven millimetres". Do not put a decimal on screen — the sources do not carry one and a decimal is exactly what drags a correction comment.

[!] THE FIGURE IS NOT IN THIS FOOTAGE AT ALL. The Goal Decision System graphic in this cut shows only the words "NO GOAL" and then cuts back to live play. If you want the number on screen you are adding it yourself, so add the right one.

ACTION — and the sequence is NOT what the pack notes said

[!] CORRECTED: the app previously said "Ederson's clearance rebounds off him toward his own goal."

It is the other way round — it is STONES' clearance that hits Ederson.

1. FIRMINO BACKHEELS into the left channel for MANÉ.

2. Mané strikes low past the onrushing Ederson and hits the INSIDE BASE OF THE FAR POST — City's right post. The woodwork, not a save, is what keeps it out first.
3. Stones sprints back to deal with the rebound and swings his RIGHT boot to clear — and the ball SMASHES STRAIGHT INTO EDERSON, who is diving backwards towards his own goal. It ricochets off him and rolls back towards the empty net.
4. SALAH sprints in to bundle it over. Ederson is stranded on the turf.
5. THE CLEARANCE: Stones turns, dives across the goalmouth and hooks it away with the INSTEP/INSIDE OF THE RIGHT BOOT, inches ahead of Salah's outstretched boot, with the ball already part-way over.
6. THE SECOND CLEARANCE, which nobody mentions: the hook loops up to the edge of the six-yard box, Salah tries to turn it in AGAIN, and Stones gets up and smashes it out of the box. He makes the save twice.

REACTION

Salah's arms go up claiming it, Mané looks to the referee, Stones stays locked into the second ball rather than celebrating, and Guardiola is caught exhaling on the bench.

CAMERA

00:55-01:14 live high wide, the whole sequence in real time. 01:15-01:25 replay 1, high tactical wide from the opposite stand.

01:26-01:32 replay 2, LOW REVERSE FROM BEHIND THE NET LOOKING OUT. CUT ON THIS. It is the only angle that shows the hook going across Salah with the ball on the line. 01:33-01:36 replay 3 as the Goal Decision System caption appears. 01:37-01:40 the Hawk-Eye overhead animation.

COMMENTARY — verbatim Live: "Firmino, the backheel into the path of Mané. Mané it is, and it comes off the post! And Liverpool almost get the follow-up, and then saved off the line by Stones! What drama in the Etihad! The visitors almost take the lead. The post comes to the rescue of City, and Guardiola's team breathe again." Replay: "...and then Stones, tremendous save off the line. Just time for the clearance, comes off Ederson, and Stones watching the ball all the way... and that's cleared right off the line."

AUDIO

a gasp as Mané beats Ederson, panicked shouts as it comes back off Ederson, then an explosive roar of relief. The crowd track carries the whole beat on its own.

CANNOT DETERMINE THE MILLIMETRE FIGURE — not displayed anywhere in this source. Use the written record (11mm) and attribute it, or say "by the width of the line" and skip the number entirely. WHICH PART OF EDERSON the first clearance strikes — chest or upper arm. The angle and speed make it genuinely unclear, so say "off Ederson" and do not name a body part. The match clock at this moment — the scorebug in this cut carries no running clock.

ACTION

1. 00:08-00:10 City work down the LEFT. ZINCENKO releases a through ball into the left channel of the box.

2. 00:11-00:13 GREALISH (#10) runs onto it with his RIGHT foot into the left side of the area. COURTOIS rushes out and drops to the turf to smother the angle.
3. 00:14-00:15 Grealish carries it PAST the sliding Courtois toward the byline/six-yard angle and strikes with his LEFT FOOT at the open net.
4. 00:15-00:16 FERLAND MENDY (#23) is sprinting DIAGONALLY BACKWARD from the left edge of the six-yard box to cover the empty net, facing outward toward the field while sliding toward his left post. The ball is rolling past the beaten Courtois toward the bottom right corner. Right on the WHITE GOAL-LINE STRIPE, Mendy lunges and HOOKS IT AWAY WITH HIS LEFT FOOT / INSTEP.
5. The clearance goes across the six-yard box toward the right side of the penalty area. Grealish turns back for the loose ball; City players raise hands; Madrid recover.

CAMERA

Live 00:00-00:28, wide from the main elevated grandstand, tracking the whole counter from midfield — Grealish beating Courtois and Mendy sliding across the goalmouth, all in ONE UNBROKEN REAL-TIME SHOT. Replay 00:48-01:02 is a low tight angle behind the line near the left post, but it covers Grealish's SUBSEQUENT chance that Courtois deflects with his studs — there is NO isolated slow-motion or goal-line technology animation of Mendy's clearance in this video.

AUDIO — English, and the co-comm line is the caption Lead: "...and the ball here, Zinchenko onto Grealish. Phil Foden's trying to time his run in the middle. Grealish is charging in himself... It's Grealish! It's off the line! It's only just off the line!" Steve McManaman: "...I don't know what happened there. What... what did Courtois... was he diving out the way? Grealish really just had a tap-in." Crowd: sharp collective gasp as Grealish rounds him, then a loud roar of relief and applause.

CANNOT DETERMINE The exact margin in millimetres — no Hawk-Eye render is broadcast here. Mendy's boot brand. Bench personnel behind the netting.

Worst Penalty Miss With Every Technique Part 2

READY · Your Pt1 2,210,074 · Pt1 labels: Powershot · Sidefoot · Pass · Panenka · Stutter · SETTLED: Budimir replaces Tah

All five described. Budimir is in at #2 (your call, B) and Pires & Henry are kept at #4 (your call). Eze's OUTCOME is disputed between the written record and the footage — say 'he missed', which nobody contests.

#5 Zaza — STUTTER — Euro 2016 shootout

The most famous run-up in football.

► 5_90wIwAMMk — 00:14–00:23, Stade de Bordeaux

NUMBER 7 read off the chest and the left leg of the shorts. Starts 4-5 METRES BEHIND THE TOP OF THE D. APPROXIMATELY 16-18 rapid choppy micro-steps — previously logged as about fourteen, two passes now put it higher, so say 'about sixteen' and never a hard number. Torso rigid and upright, bouncing vertically, arms pumping, and the whole sequence covers only A COUPLE OF METRES. He does not stop; he delays, then takes 2-3 accelerating strides. Plant RIGHT, no slip. Strike LEFT foot, laces, SEVERE BACKWARD LEAN, several metres over the bar into the stands. NEUER, better than 'waves his arms': he REACHES BOTH ARMS UP AND TOUCHES THE CROSSBAR to look bigger, then crouches. COMMENTARY: "And he's blazed it! After an exaggerated run-up..."

#4 [OK] KEPT — Pires & Henry, your call, and the callback makes it new

It IS Part 1's Pass entry. The Pass technique is genuinely scarce, and this source carries a second moment Part 1 never had.

► N4bQVTczcLQ — 34s, carries BOTH the penalty and the callback

► Arsenal 1-0 Man City, Highbury, 22 October 2005, ~72nd minute

FRAME IT: "there is only one of these, and here it is again." END ON THE CALLBACK, NOT THE MISS. Eleven days later, v Sparta Prague in the Champions League, Henry scores, runs to the corner, and MIMES THE BOTCHED PENALTY AT PIRES — a hesitation step and an exaggerated flutter of the foot over an imaginary ball. Pires grins and they embrace laughing. Part 1 did not have this. THE CONTACT: RIGHT foot, and his STUDS SKIM THE TOP OF the ball, which moves about an inch. [!] It is NOT a complete air-kick — "he never touched it" is the popular version and it is wrong. Henry has to brake, DISTIN (5) hooks it clear, and GRAHAM POLL GIVES AN INDIRECT FREE KICK TO CITY, right arm straight up and held. PERIOD DETAIL WORTH A BEAT: Arsenal are in the REDCURRANT commemorative kit worn only for Highbury's final season. PIRES IS 7, HENRY IS 14 IN THE CAPTAIN'S ARMBAND. David James in green. Boards: JVC, Lucozade Sport, Lansen, Barclays, O2, "NIKE PRO: AN ATHLETE'S SECRET WEAPON". TUNNEL INTERVIEW, same clip: "Tell us what happened." Henry: "What happened? I don't know..." and he ducks his head out of frame laughing. COMMENTARY: "What's he done?!" / "Well, he pretended to take it and then didn't seem to take it." / "And the referee's given a free kick the other way! What an extraordinary incident!"

#3 Agüero — PANENKA — Man City v Chelsea

► he7mZJDIEOQ — Sky Sport DE, 01:23–01:43 — UPGRADED SOURCE

► _waYRzpc960 — Man City official

► auV6DgA5CY8 — Diario AS, Guardiola on it

SOURCE PROBLEM SOLVED — the old note said the only clip had music and no commentary. This one has full German commentary, an official PL scorebug and four angles. MCI 1 - 0 CHE, clock 47:30 +1' — FIRST-HALF STOPPAGE TIME. EMPTY STADIUM, COVID; banners read "WE'RE NOT REALLY HERE" and "COLIN BELL THE KING 1946-2021", which dates it exactly. MENDY IS CORRECTED: he does NOT stay on his feet. He starts to commit right, ABORTS THE DIVE, SETTLES ONTO HIS RIGHT HIP AND KNEE, and CATCHES IT ONE-HANDED IN HIS RIGHT HAND above his head. AGÜERO'S EYES STAY LOCKED ON HIM THE WHOLE RUN-UP. Afterwards he rubs his nose and mouth and looks down. At 01:40, GUARDIOLA in a grey hoodie with a red 'OPEN ARMS' emblem crosses his arms and walks away shaking his head. CUT ON: the slow motion from inside the net at 01:34. COMMENTARY: "Agüero... sehr frech... und Mendy direkt in die Arme!" (very cheeky — and straight into Mendy's arms).

#2 Budimir — the one that NEVER LEFT THE FLOOR — Osasuna v Valencia, 97th minute

He won the penalty himself, then did this. Your call: B, keep Budimir.

► 4EvIcyRuAXg — Arena Sport 1 broadcast, 00:00–00:38 · CUT ON 00:30–00:35

Osasuna 0-1 Valencia, El Sadar, 15 April 2024. NUMBER 17 legible on the red Osasuna shirt. He is LEFT-footed, so the RIGHT leg is the plant. Four to five paces back, hands on hips, three normal strides, then at the ball an extreme late stutter to make Mamardashvili commit first. THE STANDING LEG BUCKLES — he sees the keeper move, tries to abort the swing, the right knee sways out, his weight drops and he stumbles FORWARD OVER THE BALL. The LEFT foot flails through and catches it with the TOE. THE BALL NEVER LEAVES THE GRASS — it rolls at walking pace to the middle of the six-yard box and Mamardashvili, already down to his right, simply gathers it against his chest. SAY 'BUCKLES', NOT 'SLIPS' — no divot, no tearing, and a dedicated pass could not separate a surface slip from a loss of balance. He did it to himself. Budimir pinches the bridge of his nose; Mojica (22) grabs his head; ARRASATE stands on the touchline hands in pockets, then sits slumped with his chin on his fist — that is your closing frame. COMMENTARY (Serbian): "Nije ni šutnuo!" — "He didn't even take a shot!" OVERLAY: mask the rotating betting graphics bottom left throughout.

#1 Eze — SIDEFOOT — missed, and the exact destination is DISPUTED

Not the crossbar. Beyond that, the record and the footage disagree.

► ygcv9fQheII — ARSENAL'S OWN OFFICIAL CHANNEL, 01:22–01:27 (shootout starts 01:12)

[!!] TWO vision passes said 'underside of the crossbar' and both were wrong: no source has him touching the frame. Beyond that the sources SPLIT. Wikipedia's match record says he SHOT WIDE LEFT. THREE vision passes on Arsenal's own footage say OVER THE BAR. TNT's live commentary says only that he 'missed'. Both readings agree he went LEFT and missed the target; they disagree on bar or post. I am not settling it. SAFE SCRIPT WORDING: "he missed" — nobody contests that. Do NOT say crossbar, and do not say 'wide left' or 'over the bar' as fact. THE TECHNIQUE IS YOUR CALL AND IT STANDS: side-foot. No source anywhere has a slow-motion replay of the contact, so the footage cannot overrule you. KNOCK-ON TO CHECK IF IT WAS OVER THE BAR: Zaza (#5) also ends over the bar, and that would be the same duplicated mechanism removing Tah was meant to fix. If you can confirm from a full replay, tell me and I will re-check variety. SCOREBUG: PENALTIES / PSG 2 / ARS 1. "EZE" above 10, "VISIT RWANDA" on the lower back. COMMENTARY: "Eberechi Eze..." then "...misses!" ONE SCRIPT CHANGE: stop saying crossbar.

[!] Keep GABRIEL as a sub, not a pick — he goes over the bar, which duplicates Zaza. [!] A REAL SIMULATION FOUND WHILE CHECKING: ZDF sportstudio's PSG-Arsenal video (PTs-3jmCQY8) is a PlayStation sim — the PS5 LOGO SITS DIRECTLY UNDER THE SCORELINE at 00:20. A real broadcaster publishing simulated content. Avoid it, and note the tell.

THE FULL SHOOTOUT, from the written record — use this and not any vision read: Gonçalo Ramos scored · GYÖKERES scored · Doué scored · EZE MISSED (record: wide left; footage: over the bar — disputed) · Nuno Mendes SAVED by Raya · Rice scored · Hakimi scored · Martinelli scored · Beraldo scored · GABRIEL OVER THE BAR. PSG win 4-3.

DECISION

SETTLED, both of them. #4: you said keep Pires & Henry. #2: you said B — keep Budimir, so Powershot goes uncovered and Tah drops to subs. Nothing on this pack is waiting on you.

#5 ZAZA — STUTTER. SOURCE: 5_9OwlwAMMk at 00:14-00:23. Stade de Bordeaux, Euro 2016.

AUTHENTIC: real broadcast — authentic Euro 2016 signage, live English commentary, no game UI.

Zaza in ROYAL BLUE short-sleeve Puma with white shoulder piping, white Puma right chest, FIGC crest left chest, white match-detail text on the centre chest (NOT LEGIBLE). NUMBER 7 read off the CENTRE CHEST and the LEFT LEG OF THE SHORTS, legible in close-up at 00:21-00:23. Royal blue shorts and socks with white. Light/white boots. SHAVED HEAD, FULL DARK BEARD. NEUER all black/dark grey long sleeve, dark shorts and socks, light/white gloves with coloured accents. Referee behind him to the left in BRIGHT YELLOW, black shorts and socks. Night, bright floodlights, dry. Packed stands behind the goal, Italian and German colours, flags, phones filming. BOARDS left to right: Continental (cut off as "ental") · UEFA EURO 2016 · Hisense · Continental with the rampant horse · McDonald's "I'm lovin' it" · Orange · Probios (behind the goal, partial) · KIA M... Upper tier banner "KOCER..." and Italian flags. NO SCOREBUG — the shootout score is NOT available from this clip.

THE RUN-UP — corrected and much more precise than before Starts about 4-5 METRES BEHIND THE TOP OF THE D, slightly to his left of the ball's line. Moves at 00:16. APPROXIMATELY 16-18 rapid choppy micro-steps (approximate — do not state as fact). Previously recorded as "about fourteen"; two passes now put it higher. Knees lifted MODERATELY high in a prancing trot. TORSO RIGID AND UPRIGHT, bouncing vertically, minimal forward lean. Arms bent at the elbows, flared slightly, pumping in time with the feet. The whole sequence covers only A COUPLE OF METRES. He DOES NOT STOP — he delays the acceleration, then takes 2-3 longer accelerating strides.

PLANT FOOT

RIGHT, firmly to the side of the ball. NO SLIP.

STRIKE

LEFT FOOT, instep/laces, hit hard. SEVERE BACKWARD LEAN, slightly to his right. The ball SKYROCKETS several metres over the bar on the right-centre of the frame, into the stands.

NEUER — better than "waves his arms": he stands centrally and REACHES BOTH ARMS UP AND TOUCHES THE CROSSBAR to make himself look bigger, then drops into a ready crouch as Zaza starts. Dives low to his right. Completely uninvolved.

CAMERA

00:14-00:20 high wide tactical, normal speed, whole box in frame. 00:20-00:23 cut to a TIGHT TRACKING CLOSE-UP from the chest up as he turns away, head down, dejected. NO REPLAY — cuts to Müller.

COMMENTARY (English): 00:14 "Now it's Zaza." 00:20 "And he's blazed it! After an exaggerated run-up..." Crowd: whistling and nervous anticipation, then gasps, groans and German cheers.

SUB (WAS #2 UNTIL 20 SEP — REPLACED BY BUDIMIR, YOUR CALL B) TAH — POWERSHOT. SOURCE: lq3o-vf5o40 (FIFA's own channel) at 00:00-00:04.

[!] This description is kept for the subs line. Budimir's #2 description is in penalty-2-budimir.md.

THE SLIP IS DEAD FOR A THIRD TIME. Verbatim: "There is no slip, no stumble, no scuff, and no loss of footing whatsoever." He approaches in a smooth continuous stride and plants his LEFT boot 6-10 INCHES TO THE LEFT OF THE BALL, flat and anchored, zero sliding, zero scuffing. The miss is entirely mechanical: the torso leans sharply back as the RIGHT boot gets UNDERNEATH the ball.

[!] GAMEPLAY FLAG RAISED — AND I AM OVERRULING IT. See the separate note in the report. In short: the analysis admits there is NO visible game UI (no indicators, no stamina bars, no radar, no prompts) and then argues from fixture plausibility, which is the exact reasoning the system says is worthless. This is FIFA's own channel. Real German fan-club banners "BAD WALDSEE" and "ADLER BRETTEN" hang in the stands. Treat the flag as a false positive and keep the pick.

SCENE

Germany WHITE with a BLACK-RED-YELLOW GRADIENT over the shoulders and upper sleeves, black shorts with white vertical side stripes, white socks. NUMBER 4 in black on the back. Boots white with bright pink/red accents on the collar and sole. Keeper in FULL SOLID PURPLE/VIOLET, white palms with neon backhand accents, black boots. Referee outside the box to the left in an ORANGE/CORAL top, black shorts, black socks with white turnover bands. Bright clear daylight, sharp shadows. Pristine turf. Stands behind the goal full of white German shirts and flags; banners "BAD WALDSEE" with a tricolor and "ADLER BRETTE". Venue banners read "BOSTON FOXBOROUGH".

BOARDS

FIFA, then Coca-Cola repeated across the red LED run. SCOREBUG top right: German flag | GERMANY | PARAGUAY | Paraguay flag, with DOT MARKERS beneath for the shootout — so the numeric score CANNOT be read.

RUN-UP

about 4 strides (approximate), fluent, no pause, no stutter. Plant LEFT as above.

STRIKE

bounces centrally with arms out, dives low-to-mid to HIS right (Tah's left). Nowhere near it.

CAMERA

ONE continuous wide tactical from high behind the taker, 00:00–00:04. NO replay, no close-up — it cuts straight to José Canale at 00:05.

COMMENTARY (English): "And he's blazed it over the top!" — identical to the earlier watch.

#3 AGÜERO — PANENKA. SOURCE UPGRADED: he7mZJDIEOQ (Sky Sport DE) at 01:23-01:43.

This solves the note in the pack that said the only clip found was a small channel with music and no commentary. This one has FULL GERMAN COMMENTARY, an official PL scorebug, and FOUR camera angles.

AUTHENTIC: real broadcast — Sky Sport watermark, official PL scorebug, live German commentary, no game UI.

SCOREBUG

PL lion | MCI 1 - 0 CHE | clock running 47:30 +1' to 47:41 +1' — FIRST-HALF STOPPAGE TIME. At 01:37 a black "HUBLOT" sponsor tag appears under it. Top right: "Sky sport .de".

SCENE

Agüero in the City 2020/21 home kit — sky blue with a WHITE MOSAIC PATTERN, "ETIHAD AIRWAYS" across the chest, white shorts, sky blue socks with white tops. "AGÜERO" above 10 on the back. White/light boots with dark detailing.

MENDY IN CORAL RED / BRIGHT ORANGE long sleeve, matching shorts and socks, white palms with dark backing, black boots. Referee (Anthony Taylor) all black. Overcast English daylight, diffused, no sharp shadows. Pristine striped grass.

THE STANDS ARE VIRTUALLY EMPTY — COVID. Club banners across the lower seats:

"CITYZENS GIVING FOR RECOVERY" · "WE'RE NOT REALLY HERE" · and on the fascia "COLIN BELL THE KING 1946–2021", which dates the match precisely.

BOARDS

etisalat · NISSAN · NEXEN TIRE · MARATHONbet · ETIHAD AIRWAYS · PUMA. Upper banners: CITYZENS OFFICIAL MEMBERSHIP COMING SOON · EXCLUSIVE MEMBERSHIP PACK · WE ARE ONE TEAM.

starts 3–4 yards behind the spot, nearly straight on, very slightly to his left. 5–6 steps (right, left, right, left, plant left, strike right). Slow, measured, deliberate.

HIS EYES STAY LOCKED ON MENDY THE WHOLE WAY.

RIGHT foot, UNDERNEATH the ball with the instep/toe. Minimal pace. It floats up to WAIST-TO-CHEST height, drifting SLIGHTLY RIGHT OF CENTRE (Mendy's right).

MENDY — CORRECTED. He does NOT stay on his feet. He BEGINS to drop his knees and commit to his right as Agüero makes contact, then — seeing it float with almost no pace — ABORTS THE DIVE, SETTLES ONTO HIS RIGHT HIP AND KNEE, REACHES HIS RIGHT ARM STRAIGHT UP AND CATCHES IT CLEANLY ONE-HANDED IN HIS RIGHT HAND, then pulls it into his chest. A one-handed catch out of the air while sitting on his side.

AFTERMATH

Agüero drops his head, raises his right hand to rub his nose and mouth, looks down, walks away embarrassed.

Mendy is up instantly, bouncing the ball, looking upfield for the counter. Chelsea turn away relieved; Sterling and Jesus pull up and drop their heads.

01:40: cut to GUARDIOLA in a GREY HOODIE with a circular red "OPEN ARMS" emblem on the back, crossing his arms and walking to the bench shaking his head.

CAMERA

01:23–01:30 high tactical live. 01:30–01:33 tight tracking of Agüero wiping his face. 01:34–01:39 LOW-ANGLE SLOW MOTION FROM INSIDE/BEHIND THE NET showing the one-handed catch. 01:40–01:43 Pep.

COMMENTARY (German), verbatim: "Und so gab's die Gelegenheit für Agüero in der Nachspielzeit der ersten Hälfte noch auf 2:0 zu stellen... Agüero... sehr frech... und Mendy direkt in die Arme! Das war schon sehr aufreizend, hätte der Held werden können... so wird das aber nichts... und dementsprechend natürlich Pep Guardiola zur Pause auch enttäuscht, nur in Anführungszeichen 1:0 in Führung." ("Agüero... very cheeky... and straight into Mendy's arms!")

#1 EZE — SIDEFoot, MISSED — DESTINATION DISPUTED. SOURCE: ygcV9fQhell (ARSENAL'S OWN OFFICIAL CHANNEL).

RESOLVED THREE WAYS, AND ONE OF THEM CHANGES THE ENTRY.

1. THE SOURCE IS OFFICIAL. ygcV9fQhell is published by the channel "Arsenal" — "VALIANT PERFORMANCE IN THE CHAMPIONS LEAGUE FINAL | HIGHLIGHTS | PSG 1 - 1 Arsenal (4-3 on pens)", 632k views. The gameplay flag on it was a false positive. Not blocked.
2. THE MATCH IS REAL, CONFIRMED IN TEXT. PSG 1-1 Arsenal, 30 May 2026, PSG retain the title on penalties. Havertz scored on 6 minutes, Dembélé equalised from the spot on 61. Reported by UEFA, ESPN, Al Jazeera, Yahoo and Olympics.com.

[!!] 3. THE BALL DID NOT HIT THE CROSSBAR. WHERE IT WENT INSTEAD IS DISPUTED.

TWO separate vision passes both told me "underside of the crossbar, rebounded down and out". No source has him touching the frame, so that is dead. Beyond that the sources SPLIT [E20, 21 Sep]: Wikipedia's match record says he SHOT WIDE LEFT; a THIRD vision pass on Arsenal's own footage (run for the clip manifest) says OVER THE BAR, agreeing with the two earlier passes; TNT Sports' live commentary says only that he "missed his side's second effort". Both readings agree he went LEFT and missed the target. They disagree on bar or post. Law 2 ranks text above footage on what happened, but one text source against three passes is a CONFLICT to record, not a verdict. SAFE WORDING: "he missed." The man who put one OVER THE BAR for certain was GABRIEL, with Arsenal's fifth.

THE ACTUAL SHOOTOUT, from the match record — use this, not any vision read: 1 Gonçalo Ramos (PSG) SCORED 2 Viktor Gyökeres (ARS) SCORED [a vision read called this Ødegaard — wrong] 3 Désiré Doué (PSG) SCORED 4 EBERECHI EZE (ARS) MISSED — record says wide left; footage says over the bar (DISPUTED) 5 Nuno Mendes (PSG) SAVED by DAVID RAYA 6 Declan Rice (ARS) SCORED 7 Achraf Hakimi (PSG) SCORED 8 Gabriel Martinelli (ARS) SCORED 9 Lucas Beraldo (PSG) SCORED [a vision read put Gonçalo Ramos in this slot — wrong] 10 GABRIEL (ARS) MISSED — OVER THE BAR PSG win 4-3.

WHY THE PICK SURVIVES, AND IS ACTUALLY BETTER FOR THIS

You ruled the technique is a SIDE-FOOT and that stands — you watched it, and no source anywhere has a slow-motion replay of the contact, so the footage cannot overrule you. And the correction helps the variety IF the record is right. Zaza (#5) blazes it OVER THE BAR. If Eze went wide of the post the five end five different ways:

never moves · caught standing still · rolled along the floor · wide of the post · into the crowd. [!] If Eze ALSO went over the bar, he and Zaza share an ending — the duplicate-mechanism problem that removing Tah was meant to fix. That is why the dispute is not cosmetic; it is flagged in the pack sheet and the manifest.

ONE CHANGE TO THE SCRIPT

stop saying crossbar. He side-foots it and misses the target entirely.

[!] And keep GABRIEL as a sub, not a pick — he goes over the bar for certain, which duplicates Zaza.

WHAT THE FOOTAGE SHOWS (Arsenal's official channel): Eze in the Arsenal 2024/25 home kit — red body, white sleeves, dark navy shoulder stripes, white shorts, red socks with dark/white banding. "EZE" arched above 10 on the back, "VISIT RWANDA" in white on the lower back. Light boots with volt/yellow accents. Long hair in braids/locs. Keeper in ALL NEON GREEN/LIME, light palms with neon accents, black boots. Referee light turquoise/cyan. Budapest. The end behind the goal is dominated by PSG supporters in white with banners and flags.

BOARDS

bet365 · PEPSI · mastercard. Across the wider shootout coverage: FedEx · Qatar Airways · Heineken · Crypto.com · UEFA CHAMPIONS LEAGUE · "Budapest 26 Final" · "Together" · "Recycle". SCOREBUG top left: "PENALTIES" / PSG [O][O] 3 4 5 | 2 / ARS [O][] 3 4 5 | 1. Arsenal shield top right.

central, angled slightly left, 4–5 yards back. 4–5 strides, smooth, NO STUTTER, no illegal stop. Plant LEFT, to the left of the ball. He gets it badly wrong and it misses the target to his left.

KEEPER

bounces on the line with arms wide, dives low to HIS right, wrong way, no contact.

AFTERMATH

Eze turns away immediately, brings his hands together in a brief clap/prayer gesture, touches the dreadlocks at the back of his head, stares at the turf.

CAMERA

01:22–01:26 live wide from elevated directly behind him looking through to goal. 01:26–01:27 medium close-up as he turns and walks back. NO REPLAY — it cuts to Nuno Mendes at 01:28. COMMENTARY (English): "Eberechi Eze..." (with a slight vocal stumble) then "...misses!"

[!] A REAL SIMULATION FOUND WHILE CHECKING — AVOID THIS ONE.

ZDF sportstudio's PSG–Arsenal video (PTs-3jmCQY8) IS a PlayStation simulation, and it has HARD evidence: at 00:20 the on-screen match graphic shows the PS5 LOGO DIRECTLY BENEATH THE SCORELINE — "PARIS 0 0 ARSENAL [PS5]". A real broadcaster publishing a simulated preview. It also gives the wrong outcomes (it has Arsenal's #10 wide RIGHT and Gabriel saved low, not over). This is what an actual game looks like when it turns up on a legitimate channel: a console logo in the graphics package.

CANNOT DETERMINE — ALL FOUR DESCRIBED THE SHOOTOUT SCORE on Zaza and on Eze — neither clip carries a usable scorebug, so the running tally cannot be read off the footage and must not be stated. EZE'S CONTACT SURFACE. You ruled it a side-foot and that ruling stands, but note why it stands: no source offers a slow-motion of the contact, so the footage cannot overrule you either way. It is your call carried on your authority, not something the pictures confirm. THE ITALY MATCH-DETAIL TEXT on Zaza's centre chest is not legible. SLOT #4 IS NOT DESCRIBED HERE AT ALL, and that is correct rather than an omission — Pires and Henry duplicate Part 1's Pass entry and the slot is flagged for replacement. There is nothing to describe until you choose its replacement.

SOURCE: N4bQVTczclQ – 34s, "Henry and Pires funny penalty fail vs Man City, and Henry mocks him celebrating the next game". Carries BOTH halves of the story.

AUTHENTIC: real broadcast archive from autumn 2005. BBC Match of the Day feed for the penalty, Sky Sports for the callback. No game UI.

PICTURE: standard definition 576i presented in 16:9. Moderate web re-compression – macroblocking on crowd movement, mild edge softening, motion blur on the pans. Deinterlaced rather than interlaced.

YOU ARE KEEPING THIS ONE KNOWING IT REPEATS PART 1. Same framing note as Stones.

It IS your Part 1's Pass entry. Say it out loud in the first breath and it becomes a callback rather than a re-cut. The Pass technique is genuinely scarce — very few attempted pass-penalties fail — so the honest line is "there is only one of these, and here it is again."

THE CALLBACK IS THE REASON TO KEEP IT, AND PART 1 DIDN'T HAVE IT

This source carries a SECOND moment eleven days later that turns a re-cut into a new video. See THE SECOND MOMENT below. If you shoot this, end on that, not on the miss.

THE FIXTURE

Arsenal 1-0 Manchester City, Highbury, 22 October 2005.

SCOREBUG

no broadcast bug. The STADIUM ELECTRONIC SCOREBOARD is visible in shot instead, reading "ARSENAL 1 - 0 MAN CITY" with the clock ticking 17:26 to 17:27 of the second half — so roughly the 72nd-73rd minute. It also carries both full line-ups, which is a nice period texture.

READ OFF THE KIT

ARSENAL — and this is the detail worth a beat on camera: they are in the REDCURRANT COMMEMORATIVE KIT, the deep burgundy one worn only for Highbury's final season. Gold lettering and numbers, white O2 chest logo, white shorts, redcurrant socks with gold trim.

PIRES IS 7. HENRY IS 14 AND WEARING THE YELLOW CAPTAIN'S ARMBAND on his left arm.

MAN CITY

sky blue with navy trim, white Thomas Cook sponsor, navy shorts, sky blue socks. Numbers legible: 5 DISTIN · 22 DUNNE · 41 IRELAND · 38 SUN JIHAI.

GOALKEEPER

DAVID JAMES, 1, bright green with black side and sleeve panels, black shorts and socks.

REFEREE

GRAHAM POLL, all black with thin white chest piping.

BOARDS

JVC · Lucozade Sport · Lansen · BARCLAYS · O2 · "NIKE PRO: AN ATHLETE'S SECRET WEAPON".

THE RUN-UP

He starts about four paces back and slightly LEFT of the spot — a normal right-footed set-up, which is what sells the disguise. Three or four casual jogging steps. The tell, and it is only visible if you look for it: HIS TORSO STAYS UPRIGHT AND STIFF, he never leans into a drive, and HIS EYES STAY FIXED DOWN ON THE BALL rather than flicking up at James. He is setting up a tap, not a shot.

THE CONTACT — the whole video is this half-second RIGHT FOOT. He goes to roll it laterally and forward to his left for Henry to run onto. HIS STUDS SKIM ACROSS THE TOP OF THE BALL. The ball moves an inch or two — a twitch, not a pass. His foot passes clean over it and he pulls up mid-stride and freezes.

[!] Note for the script: it is NOT a complete air-kick. There IS contact, on the upper surface, and the ball does move fractionally. "He never touched it" is the popular version and it is wrong.

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT

Henry is already charging in from the edge of the D expecting the ball and has to pull up, because it never rolls into his path. DISTIN (5) gets there first and hooks it left-footed into touch. GRAHAM POLL BLOWS AND GIVES AN INDIRECT FREE KICK TO MANCHESTER CITY — right arm straight up and held vertical, then a point towards City's end. The raised arm is a clean visual beat; hold on it.

THE REACTIONS

PIRES stops dead, arms slightly out, openly embarrassed. HENRY pulls up, hands open, turns away sheepish. DISTIN and DUNNE appeal to the referee while Distin hoofs it clear; DAVID JAMES just stands on his line looking baffled.

CROWD

a hush, then a collective groan, then confused laughter and ironic jeers.

THE TUNNEL INTERVIEW, same clip: "Tell us what happened." Henry: "What happened? I don't know..." — and he dissolves into laughter and DUCKS HIS HEAD COMPLETELY OUT OF FRAME.

THE SECOND MOMENT — Arsenal v Sparta Prague, Highbury, Champions League, 2 November 2005 Eleven days later. Sky Sports feed, "SKY SPORTS X / LIVE" top right, lower-third strap reading "COMING UP — KING HENRY REIGNS / ARSENAL 1 - 0 SPARTA PRAGUE". Boards: PlayStation 2, Heineken, UEFA starball. Henry scores, runs to the corner flag, and PIRES COMES TO HIM. Henry stops in front of him and MIMES THE BOTCHED PENALTY — a hesitation step and an exaggerated flutter of his foot over an imaginary ball. Pires breaks into a grin and they embrace laughing, with Bergkamp (10), Lauren (12), Fàbregas (15) and Flamini (16) arriving around them. Voiceover over it: "...Thierry Henry had a spot of bother along with Robert Pires against Manchester City recently, but it's all right tonight and Arsenal lead 1-0." END THE ENTRY HERE. The miss is the setup; the mime is the punchline.

00:00-00:11 elevated main wide — run-up, failure, clearance, referee signal.

00:12-00:18 HIGH REVERSE FROM BEHIND THE NORTH BANK GOAL looking straight down at Pires and James. CUT ON THIS for the contact — it is the only angle that shows the studs clipping the top of the ball without rolling it. 00:19-00:21 eye-level close-up, the Highbury tunnel interview. 00:22-00:34 low pitchside tracking, the Sparta Prague celebration.

COMMENTARY — verbatim, and it writes your caption for you "What's he done?!" "Well, he pretended to take it and then didn't seem to take it." "And the referee's given a free kick the other way! What an extraordinary incident!"

AUDIO

Poll's whistle cutting through, then a loud confused roar. Laughter under the tunnel interview. Upbeat TV bumper music under the Champions League callback.

CANNOT DETERMINE How far the ball actually moved — the displacement is under the sole of his boot and cannot be measured from any angle here. Say "barely moved", never a distance. Wenger's reaction and the Arsenal bench — no dugout cutaway exists in this cut. If you want Wenger's line on it, that is a separate source and it is a press quote, not footage.

OSASUNA: red body with NAVY SHOULDERS and white adidas sleeve stripes, "kosner" chest sponsor in white, navy shorts, red socks with navy trim. BUDIMIR IS 17 — name and number legible in white on red. Also legible: 22 J. MOJICA, 19 IBANEZ.

VALENCIA

cream/off-white with black and gold detail, beige-khaki shorts and socks. Legible: 6 HUGO G., 15 CENK, 18 PEPELU, 19 AMALLAH (wearing black gloves).

GOALKEEPER

BOARDS

Upper: kosner · San Miguel 0,0 · CaixaBank. Pitchside LED, animated and repeated: "MOTOGP SOLO EN DAZN" / "VIVE MOTOGP SOLO EN DAZN". Dugout fascia: BOGA · "AUPA OSASUNA!!!" · DN (Diario de Navarra).

THE RUN-UP

He stands four to five paces back, HANDS ON HIPS, staring straight at the keeper. Starts on his right foot at 00:09 and takes about three normal strides at moderate pace. Then, at the ball, he attempts an extreme stutter — a late feint to make Mamardashvili commit first.

THE PLANT — this is the entry, and it is not what people assume

HIS STANDING LEG BUCKLES. Budimir is LEFT-footed, so the right leg is the plant. He sees the keeper start to move and tries to ABORT the swing mid-stride. The right leg collapses under the sudden deceleration — the knee sways outward, his weight drops, and his balance is gone. His upper body twists backwards and sideways and he stumbles FORWARD OVER THE BALL to avoid going down.

[!] SAY "BUCKLES", NOT "SLIPS". The turf shows no divot and no tearing, and a dedicated pass could not separate an actual surface slip from a pure loss of balance caused by trying to stop the kick. The honest version is better anyway: he did it to himself.

THE STRIKE

As he is falling forward the LEFT foot flails through and catches the ball with the TOP/TOE of the boot — an accidental scuff, not a strike.

THE BALL NEVER LEAVES THE GRASS. It rolls at walking pace towards the middle-right of the goal, arriving in the centre of the six-yard box no quicker than a slow backpass.

THE KEEPER

Mamardashvili has already shuffled and started diving low to HIS right. Because the ball is trickling almost straight down the middle he simply cushions his fall, reaches out and gathers it cleanly against his chest at 00:12. He does not have to save it. He has to wait for it. Then he is up instantly, fist pumping, pointing to the sky, mobbed by Pepelu and Guillamon.

THE REACTIONS — the best part of the clip BUDIMIR freezes, walks past the spot, shakes his head and PINCHES THE BRIDGE OF HIS NOSE. MOJICA (22) GRABS BOTH SIDES OF HIS HEAD instantly.

ARRASATE ON THE TOUCHLINE, HANDS IN POCKETS, COMPLETELY MOTIONLESS — and then again later, SLUMPED ON THE BENCH WITH HIS CHIN ON HIS FIST IN SILENCE. That is your closing frame. The crowd groans once and then goes quiet. El Sadar murmuring is the only sound.

00:00-00:01 tight close-up on Budimir's face before it. 00:01-00:15 main elevated wide — the live kick, the gather, the celebration. 00:16-00:18 medium on Budimir pinching his eyes. 00:19-00:20 touchline profile of Arrasate. 00:21-00:24 circular inset slow-motion of the FOUL that won the penalty. 00:25-00:29 high rear-goal view across the whole box.

00:30-00:35 LOW PITCHSIDE FROM THE RIGHT OF THE SPOT. CUT ON THIS. The only angle that shows the stutter, the standing leg collapsing and the toe-scuff in one continuous movement. 00:36-00:37 back to the dugout, Arrasate with his hand over his chin.

COMMENTARY — Serbian, and the line is already gold

"Nije ni sutnuo!" — "He didn't even take a shot!"

Full: "97. minut. Budimir ili Mamardasvili... Moze li Osasuna do izjednacjenja u završnici meca... Budimir... Ooooo! Sta je uradio Budimir?! Sta je uradio Ante Budimir?! Translation: "97th minute. Budimir or Mamardashvili... can Osasuna find an equaliser at the death... Budimir... Ohhhh! What did Budimir do?! What on earth did Ante Budimir do?! Complete loss of concentration from Osasuna's centre forward! HE DIDN'T EVEN TAKE A SHOT! The worst moment of Budimir's season... He expected Mamardashvili to go one way, which is why he made that little hesitation..."

AUDIO

The commentator's turn from tension to disbelief carries the whole beat. One collective groan from the home end, then near silence. Keep the natural sound and do not add a sting.

CANNOT DETERMINE SLIP OR BUCKLE. The single genuinely open question, and the pass flagged it itself: no visible divot, no tearing turf, so a surface slip cannot be separated from a biomechanical collapse. Describe what the leg does, never why. The shirt numbers of the players waiting outside the D on the far left in the wide shot.

When Goalkeepers Make Accidental Saves

ALL FIVE DESCRIBED · Reference ZbunM6UKwts is a SantaBall competitor video that ran 6→2

The three that had no standalone footage anywhere are now described in full from the reference itself, and two of them picked up real identifying evidence in the process.

#5 Full Reverse Save — the scorpion heel

Reference's #6. No standalone clip exists anywhere.

► ZbunM6UKwts — reference only

CORRECTED FROM THE EARLIER READ: the attacker CHIPS it, he does not cross it low. The keeper dives low and horizontally to his RIGHT and misses completely; the ball FLOATS OVER HIS PRONE BODY. He lands flat on his stomach, HEAD FACING THE TURF, blind. BOTH LEGS WHIP UP BEHIND HIM in an inverted scorpion and the BACK OF THE RIGHT HEEL catches the UNDERSIDE of the descending ball at waist-to-chest height, looping it over the bar. Blue and amber stripes, #20 on the SHORTS. Boards: The Wrekin Housing Trust · Sky BET · GTE · MORR... CUT ON: the ultra-tight slow motion at 00:04.

#4 No-Look Save — facing his own net

Reference's #5. AND THIS ONE IS NOW IDENTIFIABLE.

► ZbunM6UKwts at 00:07–00:13

BREAKTHROUGH: the boards read 'Prifysgol Abertawe' and 'Swansea University' with a Welsh flag, and the away team has a NAME ON THE SHIRT — 'SCOTT' above number 36. Home side all white, away in red, home keeper in ROYAL BLUE wearing 33 with LIGHT CYAN BOOTS. That is findable now. THE MECHANIC: he is ON HIS HANDS AND KNEES FACING HIS OWN NETTING, back to play. The low shot hits him square on the LOWER BACK AND RIGHT BUTTOCK while his eyes are pointed into the back of his own goal. CUT ON: the ground-level replay from behind the endline at 00:09. AUDIO: a real crowd 'Ooooh!' at the moment of contact.

#3 IDK Save — straight in the face

Reference's #4. And it is not what the pack said it was.

► ZbunM6UKwts at 00:14–00:22

IT IS A PENALTY REBOUND. The penalty hits the base of the right post; the keeper is prone across the line; the rebound runs to an unmarked attacker 5–6 yards out who side-foots it at the open net — and it HITS THE KEEPER FLUSH IN THE FACE while he scrambles backward on his hands and knees. Arms spread, NO hand movement toward the ball at all. It loops over the bar. THE BRAZIL ATTRIBUTION IS NOW EVIDENCED: boards read BENOIT · NET HDTV · SUBWAY · Claro-hdtv · FATAL · Claro-4G. Packed standing terrace, white building with blue window frames behind. CUT ON: the low angle behind the net at 00:17.

#2 Manuel Neuer v Bas Dost — the heel he cannot see

Confirmed by the commentary itself, no inference needed.

► PaaZxPh0A-o — 02:00–02:08

"Oh, Bas Dost! Bas Dost lucky... He should have buried it!" — the commentary names him for you. Dost chips Neuer with his right; Neuer dives left onto his chest and it loops over him; sliding forward with his head facing AWAY from goal he FLICKS HIS RIGHT LEG UP AND BACKWARD and the heel catches it EXACTLY ON THE CHALK. EMPTY STADIUM — a board reads "THANK YOU, HEALTHCARE HEROES", which dates it to the 2020 restart. Neuer in teal with TEAL BOOTS. CUT ON: the slow-motion goal-line close-up at 02:04 through the net — the Derbystar ball on the white line with his boot heel coming down on it.

#1 Choupo-Moting stops his own team scoring

PSG v Strasbourg. The closer, and the commentary writes the caption.

► PaaZxPh0A-o — 05:05–05:19

“#17 CHOUPO-MOTING” and “#24 NKUNKU” both read off the backs. Nkunku chips Matz Sels (orange) toward the empty net; Choupo-Moting is sprinting along the goal line toward the left post FACING SIDEWAYS, extends his LEFT FOOT and STOPS IT DEAD ON THE WHITE LINE, off the base of the upright and back out. THE BEST FRAME IN THE PACK: at 05:09 the broadcast CUTS TO THE PSG BENCH AND KYLIAN MBAPPÉ, wide-eyed and open-mouthed. COMMENTARY: “oh Choupo-Moting has hit the post from an inch out!” / “He's kept it out, Jonathan! HE'S BLOCKED IT ON THE LINE FROM HIS OWN PLAYER!” [!] The compilation splices a meme clip of a fan punching a TV at 05:16 — not broadcast, do not use it.

[!] THE STANDING WEAKNESS, WHICH YOU ACCEPTED KNOWINGLY: the title promises goalkeepers and #1 is a striker. Zlatan, Bendtner and the Liga MX referee in the subs are the same issue. The footage is not the problem here; the title promise is. Worth one line on camera to get ahead of it.

WHY THIS PREMISE FIGHTS YOU, for the next time: goalkeeper is one of your strongest lanes — 2.34M, 2.28M, 1.16M, 949k, 664k — and every winner is about a keeper being CLEVER. ‘Accidental’ removes the agency that makes the lane work, and famous accidental blocks are nearly all by outfield players, which is exactly why the goalkeeper ones are obscure.

DECISION

None outstanding. Optional: chase the Swansea lead to put a name on #4.

ACTION — and this is DIFFERENT from what I had before

1. Attacker in red dribbles into the box toward the right of the six-yard box. Defender #20 slides in from the attacker's LEFT.
2. The attacker cuts inside and CHIPS/STABS it with his RIGHT foot toward the goalmouth, aiming for the top corner. [Previously recorded as a low cross — it is a chip.]
3. The keeper commits forward and dives LOW AND HORIZONTALLY TO HIS RIGHT across the six-yard line. His hands miss. The ball FLOATS DIRECTLY OVER HIS PRONE BODY.
4. He lands flat on stomach and chest, HEAD FACING THE TURF, sliding forward, blind.
5. As the ball passes above his lower back and legs, BOTH LEGS WHIP UP BEHIND HIM in an inverted scorpion. His RIGHT boot — back of the heel and upper sole — strikes the UNDERSIDE of the descending ball at roughly waist-to-chest height off the ground.
6. The deflection sends it up and backward, looping cleanly OVER THE CROSSBAR, landing on the roof of the net behind the goal line. Defender #20 runs past the goal line; the keeper rolls onto his side.

CAMERA — three shots

1. 00:00–00:02 live, high wide from the main grandstand, panning and zooming into the box.
2. 00:02–00:04 replay, mid-height pitchside/corner, cropped tight on the goalmouth, tracking the dive and slide into the heel contact.
3. 00:04–00:06 SLOW-MOTION ULTRA-TIGHT replay on the keeper face-down, isolating the right heel flipping up into the ball.

AUDIO

Original commentary: NOT AUDIBLE — fully suppressed. Creator voiceover verbatim: "Random brother in the box..." / "Oh, shit!" (short laugh) / "Brother saved it in reverse mode!" Faint ambient crowd under the speech. A cartoon punch/impact SFX lands on the boot contact at 00:05.

CANNOT DETERMINE The keeper's name. The clubs — "The Wrekin Housing Trust" points to Shropshire and the blue/amber stripes resemble Shrewsbury Town, but NO crest or team name is legible on screen, so it stays unstated. The competition and the date.

BREAKTHROUGH: THIS ONE IS NOW IDENTIFIABLE

Boards read "Prifysgol Abertawe" / "Swansea University" / "sky bet" / "BETTING BETTER" / "John Pye" / "MILES H..." plus a Welsh flag banner. That is a SWANSEA home ground. And the attacking team has a NAME ON THE SHIRT: "SCOTT" above number 36, white on red. Home side in all white (Swansea colours), away side in red. Home goalkeeper wears 33.

ACTION

search "Swansea 33 goalkeeper" against a red away side with a squad member named Scott wearing 36. This is findable now, where before it was a dead end.

SCENE

Attackers: RED jerseys, WHITE collars and white sleeve trim, WHITE shorts with red numbers, white socks with red detail. Legible: 14 (back and right thigh), 18 (back), 9 (partial), and 36 with the name SCOTT printed above it. Defenders: ALL WHITE — shirt, shorts, socks with dark accents. Legible: 11 and 17 (dark font on white).

Goalkeeper: monochrome ROYAL BLUE long sleeve, royal blue shorts, royal blue socks, number 33 in white on the back AND on the left leg of the shorts. WHITE gloves with black inner palm and cuff detail. LIGHT CYAN / SKY-BLUE BOOTS. Fair skin, short brown hair, trimmed stubble. No referee visible. Overcast natural light mixed with floodlights. Well-kept grass, standard white markings. Grandstand behind the goal, spectators in dark coats.

OVERLAY

1. 2. 3.(red) 4.(red) 5. No-Look Save 6. Full Reverse Save. Watermark "_SANTA BALL" centre.

ACTION — the mechanic is much clearer than I had it

1. 00:07 Red #14 controls it inside the LEFT of the penalty area, dribbling diagonally at the six-yard box.
2. 00:07–00:08 The keeper has ALREADY committed forward and gone down near the six-yard line to the left of the goal. He ends up ON HIS HANDS AND KNEES FACING HIS OWN NETTING, back turned completely to the field of play.
3. 00:08–00:10 Red #14 cuts inside past white #17 and strikes a LOW shot with his RIGHT FOOT at the open net. White #11 slides to block and misses.
4. 00:10 THE CONTACT: the low ball hits the keeper square on his LOWER BACK / RIGHT BUTTOCK / UPPER REAR THIGH. He is crouched on all fours facing the net; his head and eyes are pointed AWAY from the ball into the back of his own goal at the instant of impact.
5. 00:10–00:13 It rebounds off his backside out into the six-yard box. He recovers, gathers it, and walks off holding the ball tucked under his LEFT arm against his torso.

CAMERA — three shots

1. 00:07–00:09 high wide tactical, panning right, zooming as the move develops.
2. 00:09–00:11 GROUND-LEVEL replay from behind the endline beside the post — this is the money angle, it shows him facing into the net and the ball striking his lower back.
3. 00:11–00:13 medium tracking from the main side camera, following him walking across the six-yard box.

AUDIO

Creator voiceover verbatim: "Random player in front of goal..." then "What the... [scoff] No-look save just unlocked!" Crowd: a sharp collective "Ooooh!" at the moment of contact — real, usable audio.

AUDIO

a video-game "achievement unlocked" chime lands exactly on the words "just unlocked" at 00:12.

Claro and NET are Brazilian telecoms and FATAL is a Brazilian brand. Previously this was written as "Brazilian state league" on a hunch. It now has boards behind it.

AND THE MOMENT IS NOT WHAT I HAD WRITTEN

This is a PENALTY REBOUND, and the ball hits the keeper IN THE FACE.

SCENE

Attackers: solid RED short sleeves with white sleeve and collar trim, red shorts, red socks. Front sponsor/crest NOT LEGIBLE. A teammate at the edge of the box wears 27 in white on the chest. Black boots with white accents. Defenders: BLACK/dark short sleeves with white lettering, black shorts, black socks.

#14 in large white on the back, BRIGHT YELLOW BOOTS. Another defender in NEON GREEN BOOTS.

Goalkeeper: TURQUOISE/light blue long sleeve with dark navy-black panels across the shoulders and flanks, WHITE shorts with dark side detail, WHITE socks. Gloves NEON YELLOW-GREEN backhand, white palms. Boots white and black. Short dark hair, dark stubble. Referee: yellow short sleeves, black shorts, black socks, black boots. Bright clear daylight, sharp dark diagonal shadows across the box toward the goal line. Good grass, all markings crisp — penalty spot, six-yard box, penalty area and arc all visible. Low white perimeter wall with blue trim and metal fencing, a packed STANDING TERRACE behind it, and a two-storey white building with blue window frames behind that.

OVERLAY

"WHEN KEEPERS MAKE" (white) / "ACCIDENTAL SAVES" (red, black outline). Rank list with "4. IDK Save" in white on a red number. Watermark SANTA BALL centre.

ACTION

- 00:14 The clip opens IMMEDIATELY AFTER A PENALTY HAS BEEN TAKEN. The ball hits low against the base of the keeper's RIGHT POST. The keeper has dived low to his right and is lying prone on his stomach and chest across the goal line. The ball ricochets sharply off the upright back into the centre of the six-yard box.
- 00:15-00:16 An attacker in red sprints in from outside the RIGHT of the penalty area, completely unmarked, arriving about five to six yards out. He side-foots a firm first-time strike with his RIGHT FOOT at the open net.
- 00:16-00:17 The keeper, still down, is scrambling BACKWARD on hands and knees trying to reorient. The ball goes straight into his body and head as he flails back.
- 00:17-00:20 THE CONTACT, on the reverse replay: he pushes off the ground and tumbles backward onto his backside with his legs kicking up. The ball strikes him FLUSH IN THE FACE / FOREHEAD. His arms are spread wide — he makes NO movement of his hands toward the ball at all. The impact deflects it sharply upward and it loops harmlessly OVER THE CROSSBAR.
- 00:20-00:22 The low side replay confirms he was pushing off the base of the post in disarray and was entirely unaware of the ball until it hit him.

CAMERA — three shots

- 00:14-00:17 high sideline, live speed: the rebound, the follow-up strike, the block.
- 00:17-00:20 LOW ANGLE BEHIND THE NET looking out, slight slow motion — this is the one that shows the ball hitting his face while he is on his back. This is the shot to build the edit on.
- 00:20-00:22 ground level behind the left post looking diagonally across the line, close on the scramble.

AUDIO

Creator voiceover verbatim: 00:14 "Brazilian brother from the spot..." / 00:16 "What the fuck is happening?" / 00:19 "Keeper with I don't know save." Original commentary NOT AUDIBLE under the voiceover; muffled crowd and ambient noise faintly present. Upbeat electronic music throughout.

BAS DOST IS CONFIRMED BY THE COMMENTARY ITSELF — no inference needed

English commentary, verbatim: "Oh, Bas Dost! Bas Dost! What? He should have buried it! He should have carried on!"

THIS IS THE PUREST ACCIDENT IN THE WHOLE PACK, AND THE FOOTAGE PROVES IT

The title promise of this video is "accidental". Most entries need you to argue the case. This one does not, because the reason is visible: at the moment the ball hits him, NEUER IS FACE DOWN, SLIDING AWAY FROM PLAY, WITH HIS EYES ON THE NETTING. He cannot see the ball. He makes no kicking motion and no reach. The ball simply rolls into a trailing boot. If you only have time to make one entry's case properly on camera, make it this one.

SCENE

Empty stadium. This is a BEHIND-CLOSED-DOORS COVID-ERA match — the stands are bare and the crowd noise is the piped artificial track the Bundesliga used in 2020. One of the perimeter boards reads "THANK YOU, HEALTHCARE HEROES", which dates it beyond doubt and is a genuinely striking visual. The turf looks wet, which is why the slide carries as far as it does.

READ OFF THE KIT

BAYERN all red — red shirts with white shoulder stripes, red shorts, red socks. NEUER mint/turquoise long sleeves, turquoise shorts, turquoise socks, white and black gloves, WHITE AND RED BOOTS. The boot colour matters, because the red flash on the heel is what you can actually see making the contact on the replay. EINTRACHT FRANKFURT white shirts with black shoulder and trim detail, white shorts, white socks with black banding.

REFEREE

not in frame during this sequence.

left to right behind the goal MAGENTA TV · THANK YOU, HEALTHCARE HEROES · Allianz · QATAR AIRWAYS · Allianz again.

ACTION

beat by beat, and the order is the whole point

1. Neuer leaves his line towards Dost on the right side of the box and COMMITS EARLY into a low slide along the turf to cut the angle down.
2. Dost opens his RIGHT foot and chips it delicately over the sliding keeper. The ball is now rolling towards an empty net and Dost has beaten him.
3. Neuer's own momentum betrays him and then saves him: the slide carries his whole body PRONE AND STOMACH-FIRST across the line and into his own net.
4. Face down and travelling, his legs trail behind him. His RIGHT knee is bent upward with the foot slightly off the ground.
5. THE BALL STRIKES THE HEEL/UNDERSIDE OF HIS TRAILING RIGHT BOOT, right on the threshold of the goal line, and deflects away.

DELIBERATE OR ACCIDENT

accident, and here is the evidence rather than the assertion. He is face down. He is facing away from the field of play. His head is down and his eyes are on the netting and turf ahead of him at the exact moment of contact. He never turns his head to track the ball. He makes no kick and no reach. The boot is trailing as a passive consequence of the slide.

THE ATTACKER

Dost drives into the box, opens the body, and takes the chip early and softly — a confident, unhurried finish. He then FOLLOWS THE FLIGHT WITH HIS EYES ALL THE WAY, fully expecting it to cross the line, and PULLS UP ABRUPTLY when it does not. The disbelief on him is the reaction shot.

REACTION

There is no celebration to cut to, which is itself the story. Neuer slides to a halt INSIDE the net, ROLLS HIS HEAD BACK OVER HIS RIGHT SHOULDER towards the pitch, and looks out with a stunned, bemused expression as he works out what he has just done. That look is the last frame of the entry.

CAMERA

02:00-02:03 elevated wide tactical: Dost breaks through, Neuer slides out, the chip, the slide over the line. This carries the geometry.

02:04-02:07 GROUND-LEVEL REVERSE SLOW-MOTION FROM INSIDE THE NET, looking back out over the goal line. CUT ON THIS. It is the only angle that shows the ball meeting the trailing right heel, and without it the audience has to take your word for it. 02:07-02:08 tight slow-motion close-up of Neuer prone in the net looking back over his shoulder.

COMMENTARY

"Oh, Bas Dost! Bas Dost! What? He should have buried it! He should have carried on!"

AUDIO

Piped/artificial crowd murmur only. There is no real crowd reaction available on this clip, so do not build the beat around an audience gasp that does not exist — let the commentary carry it.

CANNOT DETERMINE

THE FIXTURE AND THE DATE. DO NOT STATE THEM ON CAMERA.

The players are confirmed, the teams are confirmed by the kits, and the empty stadium puts it in the 2020 COVID window. But the exact match is not pinned: the candidates are the Bundesliga meeting and the DFB-Pokal semi-final of that period, and the footage does not carry a scorebug, competition badge or clock to separate them. Say "behind closed doors in 2020" — which is provable from the frame — and leave the fixture out. Squad numbers on either player. Neither is legible at this resolution and angle. Identity rests on the commentary and on appearance, which for these two is sufficient. The exact margin on the goal line. There is NO goal-line-technology graphic in this clip, so do not claim millimetres or say the technology confirmed anything.

Ligue 1, PSG v Strasbourg. Night match under floodlights.

THE COMMENTARY IS THE CAPTION — take it verbatim

English, two voices: Lead: "...chance, little chip... oh Choupo-Moting has hit the post from an inch out!" Co-comm: "He's kept it out, Jonathan! He's blocked it on the line from his own player!" Lead: "He's going in..."

SCENE

PSG home: dark navy shirts with tonal red central detailing, navy shorts, navy socks.

READ OFF THE KIT

"#17 CHOUPO-MOTING" white lettering on the back · "#24 NKUNKU" in PINK/RED font on the back. Chest sponsor not legible at broadcast distance. Strasbourg away: white shirts with subtle blue and red accents, white shorts, white socks. Defender #13 visible sliding in. Strasbourg goalkeeper MATZ SELS: ORANGE/SALMON long sleeve, orange shorts, orange socks. Referee not legibly visible. Green, manicured, dry pitch.

BOARDS

ACTION

1. NKUNKU (#24) breaks behind the Strasbourg line into the right channel of the box. Sels charges out.
2. Nkunku gets there first and lofts a delicate CHIP with his RIGHT FOOT over the sliding keeper.
3. The ball floats cleanly past the beaten keeper and is bouncing toward the EMPTY NET between the posts.
4. CHOUPO-MOTING (#17) is sprinting along the goal line toward the left post (attacking perspective). As the ball is about to cross, he reaches for it, facing partially SIDEWAYS toward the pitch.
5. THE BLOCK: he extends his LEFT FOOT and touches/draws the ball right on the white line, completely arresting its momentum. It stops dead, ricochets off the base of the upright, and rolls back out toward the field of play.
6. Strasbourg's #13 and Sels scramble back and clear. A certain goal has become a goal-line clearance made against his own team.

CAMERA — four cuts, and the second one is the gift

1. 05:05–05:08 high wide sideline through the chip and the block.
 2. 05:09–05:10 CUT TO THE PSG BENCH: a tight medium shot of KYLIAN MBAPPÉ, wide-eyed, mouth open, staring in disbelief. That reaction shot is the single best edit beat in this pack.
 3. 05:11–05:15 LOW-ANGLE SLOW MOTION from behind the line at the base of the post, showing exactly how the left boot stopped it inches short and put it onto the post.
 4. 05:16–05:19 the compilation splices in a meme clip of an enraged fan punching through a flat-screen TV with a beer can in hand, a PSG badge edited over his head. Not broadcast footage — do not use it as if it were.
- CANNOT DETERMINE The exact clock and scoreline (scorebug cropped). Whether offside was eventually given — the clip cuts before the restart. PSG chest sponsor lettering.

STANDING NOTE

he is a striker, not a goalkeeper. You accepted that knowingly. The title promise is still the weak point of this pack, not the footage.

Top 5 Shortest Lived Primes (2026 Redo)

READY — TYPE B, NO CLIPS NEEDED · Your Pt1 1,967,544 · 2,230 comments · reference 9aYJ3lBf7HY is your own Part 1

Zero overlap with Part 1, and Part 1 contains two factual errors you can correct on camera.

#5 João Félix

2,800 likes — most expensive teenager ever, Saudi league at 26.

#4 Dele Alli

2,357 — two PFA Young Player awards, then out of football.

#3 Andrey Arshavin

1,365 — four goals at Anfield, then gone.

#2 Michu

One season: eighteen in the Premier League, twenty-two in all competitions, then an ankle that never recovered.

► Wikipedia — Michu: 22 in all competitions in 2012–13, 18 in the league; retired 25 July 2017 aged 31 over the right ankle

#1 Marco van Basten

Retired at 28 through injury, three Ballons d'Or.

Part 1's five were Owen, Torres, Pato, Adriano and Ronaldinho. None of your five collides.

TWO ERRORS IN YOUR OWN PART 1, AND CORRECTING THEM ON CAMERA IS THE STRONGEST REDO HOOK YOU HAVE: the Torres caption says £80 MILLION and the fee was around £50m, and the voiceover calls Ronaldinho a two-time Ballon d'Or winner — he won ONE, in 2005. He won FIFA World Player twice, which is the confusion.

#5 MICHAEL OWEN — 1998 WC goal v Argentina (England white, #20 on front and shorts; Chamot #3 chasing; board "Gillette", FIFA TV watermark), Ballon d'Or portrait in Liverpool Reebok shirt, stretched off for England, sliding into hoardings at Man Utd (PlayStation 3 / UniCredit / Heineken). Captions: 1998 · 18 · 22 · 25 · 4.

#4 FERNANDO TORRES — Liverpool red (Carlsberg), then Chelsea blue "TORRES 9" rounding DE GEA at Old Trafford and putting it WIDE OF THE LEFT POST with his left foot, then face-down on the grass. Captions: £80 MILLION · 3.

#3 ALEXANDRE PATO — AC Milan white/sash away "PATO 7" v Barcelona in the CL: picks it up near the centre circle, bursts through, nutmegs the onrushing keeper. Then hamstring/groin injuries, an Orlando City purple clip (ORLANDO HEALTH), head in hands crying. Captions: 17 · 21 · 2.

#2 ADRIANO — Brazil yellow #7 at the 2006 WC (boards Continental, Yahoo!, T-Mobile, Philips) and Inter "ADRIANO 10" at the San Siro (Gattuso #8 tackling; boards RICAMBI ORIGINALI, TIM). Caption: TWO.

#1 RONALDINHO — Ballon d'Or portrait, 2002 WC trophy, 2006 CL trophy with Puyol, the BERNABÉU STANDING OVATION (Barça 05/06 stripes, yellow 10, board SIEMENS, yellow Nike ball), then nightlife footage — white beret, sunglasses, gold chains, confetti. Captions: 2004 · 2006 · 28.

CROSS-CHECK vs my Redo picks (João Félix / Dele Alli / Arshavin / Michu / Van Basten): - ZERO overlap. All five are fresh. Nothing to fix.

TWO FACTUAL ERRORS IN THE REFERENCE — free Part 2 / redo ammunition: - "Chelsea paid 80 million pounds for him" — the fee was ~£50m (then a British record). The on-screen caption says £80 MILLION too, so it is baked into the video. - "He won two Ballon d'Ors" (Ronaldinho) — he won ONE (2005). He won FIFA World Player twice, which is what the writer confused it with. Correcting your own old video on camera is one of the strongest redo hooks you have.

Players Who Could've Played For Another Nation

READY – TYPE B, NO CLIPS NEEDED · Reference 0zxkpSnyZJs, watermark 'yanedits', 29s, NO VOICEOVER AT ALL

Four of five are fresh. The fifth is a differentiator rather than a duplicate. And the reference hands you your edge on a plate.

#5 Bukayo Saka — NIGERIA

Parents from Ibadan.

#4 Michael Olise — ENGLAND

Born in Hammersmith and capped by England youth before choosing France.

#3 Alphonso Davies — LIBERIA

Born in a Ghanaian refugee camp to Liberian parents.

#2 Kylian Mbappé — ALGERIA

The reference sends him to Cameroon. Both are true and Algeria is the one people miss.

SOFT FLAG: Mbappé is the reference's lead entry too — but it uses his father's Cameroonian side and you are using his mother Fayza Lamari's Kabyle side. Say 'everyone says Cameroon' and it becomes the hook.

#1 Lionel Messi — SPAIN

Held Spanish citizenship and turned down a Spain U20 call-up.

The reference's format is a top bar of five face icons that flip to flags, plus a PHOTOSHOPPED COMPOSITE of each player in the other nation's kit. You will need to make those composites.

YOUR EDGE, AND IT IS ENORMOUS: the reference STATES NO BASIS FOR A SINGLE ONE. No voiceover, no text, nothing explaining why any of them was eligible. It is five flags and five photoshops over phonk. You voice yours — say the specific link out loud on every entry and it is a different video, not a better-looking copy of the same one.

STATUS: PASS — one soft flag (Mbappé)

Footage: real broadcast, BUT every reveal ends on a DOCTORED COMPOSITE STILL (player photoshopped into the other nation's kit with that flag laid over the chest). That is the format, not a defect — but note it.

Watermark: 'yanedits', centred near bottom throughout. NO VOICEOVER AT ALL — Brazilian phonk only. Length 29s.

Format: top bar of 5 player face icons + a "?"; each icon flips to the new flag as its entry lands.

CRITICAL

the reference states NO BASIS for a single one. No voiceover, no text, nothing explaining why any of them was eligible. It is five flags and five photoshops. That is the whole video.

CROSS-CHECK vs my picks (Saka→NGA / Olise→ENG / Davies→LBR / Mbappé→ALG / Messi→ESP): - Saka, Olise, Davies, Messi: FRESH, none in the reference. - SOFT FLAG: MBAPPÉ is in both — and he is the reference's LEAD entry. But the reference sends him to CAMEROON (his father's side) and you send him to ALGERIA (his mother Fayza Lamari's Kabyle side). Both are true, which makes this a differentiator rather than a duplicate. Lean into it on camera: the common answer is Cameroon, and Algeria is the one people miss. - YOUR ACTUAL EDGE: you voice yours. The reference explains nothing. Every entry of yours should state the specific link out loud — Saka's parents from Ibadan, Olise born in Hammersmith and capped by England youth before choosing France, Davies born in a Ghanaian refugee camp to Liberian parents, Messi holding Spanish citizenship and turning down a Spain U20 call-up. That is a different video, not a better-looking copy of the same one.

Part three — the warnings worth hearing first

Two packs, and NEITHER is broken or half-built. Every pick in both is real, named and sourced. What they carry is a warning about format precedent rather than about content — shoot them knowing it. The reference audit behind each follows.

Transfers That Almost Happened

COMPLETE — SHAPE IS THE ONLY OPEN QUESTION

- #5 Ronaldinho → Manchester United, 2003
- #4 Lewandowski → Blackburn Rovers, 2010
- #3 Neymar → Real Madrid
- #2 Fekir → Liverpool, 2018
- #1 De Gea → Real Madrid, 2015

WHAT IT IS

The reference is not a top-five. It is one 69-second story about ONE transfer — Toni Kroos to Manchester United — with no rank numbers and no list at all. The title is plural; the video is singular.

WHY THAT BREAKS IT

Your version is five transfers. None is Kroos, so there is no duplicate — the problem is structural. Five picks in sixty seconds is twelve seconds each, and twelve seconds cannot carry 'Moyes flew to Munich and sat on his couch'. The reference works BECAUSE it spends the whole runtime on one story with a reversal in it.

THE FIX

OPTION A, my recommendation: one transfer per video, about seventy seconds, full arc. De Gea and the fax first — it is the strongest single story of the five and the most famous. The other four become their own uploads, which turns one pack into a five-video series with no extra research. OPTION B: keep the top-five, but then it is your format and not the reference's, and you need different proof that a five-pick version travels. WORTH STEALING EITHER WAY: real news-article screenshots used as evidence beats, punctuated by meme reaction cutaways. Fact, fact, reaction.

THE REFERENCE AUDIT IN FULL

STATUS: FAIL — FORMAT MISMATCH. The reference is NOT a top-5.

Footage: all real — broadcast, press conferences, archive stills, real news screenshots, meme cutaways.

NO photoshopped kit mock-ups anywhere (Kroos is never put in a United shirt). Length 69s.

WHAT THE REFERENCE ACTUALLY IS

ONE transfer. One story. Sixty-nine seconds on Toni Kroos to Manchester United, and nothing else. There are no rank numbers, no #5-to-#1, no list. The title is plural; the video is singular.

THE STORY IT TELLS (so you can see the shape): Setup — Moyes takes over from Ferguson in 2013 and needs a statement signing. Misses Bale, misses Fàbregas, ends deadline day with Fellaini. [Steve Harvey Family Feud reaction cut] The move — Kroos's Bayern contract talks have stalled; Bayern don't want to lose him free. January 2014 Moyes FLIES TO MUNICH AND SITS ON KROOS'S COUCH IN HIS OWN HOME. Kroos agrees, ~£20m, for end of season. [headline still: "Toni Kroos 'agreed to join Manchester United' after David Moyes persuaded him and his family"] The twist — April 2014, United sack Moyes 10 months into a 6-year deal. [BBC Sport screenshot: "David Moyes sacked as Manchester United manager after less than a year in charge"] [Rocky Lockridge crying meme] Van Gaal comes in. Kroos had already played under Van Gaal at Bayern and they never clicked. He waits. The call from Old Trafford never comes. The payoff — Ancelotti rings during the World Cup. €25m to Real Madrid. Ten years, 23 trophies, five Champions Leagues. Ends on Kroos posed with all five trophies.

WHY THIS IS A FAIL FOR THE PACK AS BUILT

My transfers-almost pack is five picks (Ronaldinho→Man Utd, Lewandowski→Blackburn, Neymar→Real, Fekir→Liverpool, De Gea→Real). None of them is Kroos, so there is no duplicate — the problem is structural. Five picks in ~60s is 12 seconds each. Twelve seconds cannot carry "he sat on his couch." The reference works BECAUSE it spends the whole runtime on one story with a reversal in it. Chopping that into five leaves five facts and no story, which is the weakest version of this idea. De Gea → Real Madrid is the clearest case: the fax deadline is a 60-second story and a dead 12-second fact.

THE TWO WAYS TO RUN IT — pick one: A. MATCH THE REFERENCE. One transfer per video, ~70s, full arc. De Gea/the fax first — it is the strongest single story in the five and the most famous. The other four become their own uploads. This turns one pack into a five-video series with no extra research. B. KEEP THE TOP-5. Then it is your format, not the reference's, and the reference stops being the model — you need a different proof that a five-pick version of this travels. My read is A. The reference is a 69-second single-story video and that is the thing that worked.

EDIT GRAMMAR WORTH STEALING (this part is format, so it is fair game): Real news-article screenshots used as evidence beats, and meme reaction cutaways (Family Feud, the crying man) punctuating the bad news. That rhythm — fact, fact, reaction meme — is what keeps a talking-head transfer story from feeling like a Wikipedia read-out.

Players We Always Forget Played for That Club

COMPLETE — SHOOT KNOWING THERE IS NO PRECEDENT

- #5 Andrea Pirlo at INTER MILAN
- #4 Arjen Robben at CHELSEA
- #3 Kevin De Bruyne at CHELSEA
- #2 Thierry Henry at JUVENTUS
- #1 Frank Lampard at MANCHESTER CITY

WHAT IT IS

The reference GT-1mKJRDxU is YOUR OWN 'Players We Always Call By Their Full Name', 3,240,079 views. It is about names you can only say in full — Nuno Mendes, Luis Diaz, Rafael Leao, 'Toni Krease', '2. Cristiano Rolando'. Nothing to do with forgetting a club. That one link is logged against SEVEN separate ideas in the queue.

WHY THAT BREAKS IT

One video proving a LANE is not one video proving a TITLE. Full Name runs on a specific mechanic — the name is unsayable in halves and the viewer tests it in their own head. Forget-Played-For runs on surprise. Different engines, one inherited proof. (Correction on the record: I first wrote this was another creator's video. It is yours, and Part 2 exists too at 449,749 views.)

THE FIX

The picks themselves are good — Pirlo at Inter, Robben at Chelsea, De Bruyne at Chelsea, Henry at Juventus, Lampard at City. Shoot it if you want, but log it as riding lane proof rather than believing it has a precedent. One caution: Full Name Part 2 did 0.14× its parent. This lane's flagship did not carry its own sequel.

THE REFERENCE AUDIT IN FULL

STATUS: FAIL — THE REFERENCE LINK IS WRONG FOR ALL OF THEM.

WHAT GT-1mKJRDxU ACTUALLY IS: "Players We Always Call By Their Full Name (PART 1)" — 64s, real broadcast footage, no game, no AI.

#5 Nuno Mendes (PSG/Portugal) · #4 Luis Diaz (Liverpool/Colombia) · #3 Rafael Leao (Milan)

#2 "Toni Krease" · #1 "Cristiano Rolando"

Cold open: Karim Adeyemi, Dortmund yellow, "ADEYEMI 27", left-foot finish in the six-yard box.

It has NOTHING to do with forgetting which club someone played for, with mispronunciation, or with who gets blamed first. It is about names you can only ever say in full.

WHY THIS MATTERS

in queued.csv that one link is pasted as the reference for SEVEN separate ideas — forgot-club, mispronounce, blame-first, "Players You Forgot Played Together", "Players We Always Confuse With Each Other", "Players Everyone Wanted at Their Club", "Players We All Copied in the Playground". One link cannot be the proof for seven different videos. It is the proof for none of them. THREE OF THOSE ARE IN THIS APPROVED BATCH AND ARE THEREFORE UNPROVEN: - forgot-club (Pirlo at Inter / Robben at Chelsea / KDB at Chelsea / Henry at Juventus / Lampard at City) - mispronounce (and see the second failure below) - blame-first (Beckham 98 / Saka 2020 / Terry 2008 / Baggio 94 / Karius 2018) The picks inside them may still be good — they are sourced from your own comments — but none of the three has a viral video behind it showing the format travels. Right now they are guesses with a confident link attached.

SECOND FAILURE, SAME PACK SET — mispronounce WAS NOT FINISHED. [RESOLVED 20 Sep 2026] At audit its picks read: #5 Khvicha Kvaratskhelia · #4 "In rework" · #3 "In rework" ·

#2 Thierry Henry · #1 "In rework" — 2/5, marked locked and approved with three empty slots.

NOW FIXED: #4 César Azpilicueta · #3 Wojciech Szczęśny · #1 Mesut Özil, every pronunciation sourced rather than written from memory, and all five checked against Full Name Pt1 for collisions. The pack is complete. The LANE caveat below still stands — the reference proves the lane, not this title.

THE SYSTEM FIX

A reference link is only valid if the reference's TITLE PROMISE matches the pack's title promise. Before a pack is locked: open the reference, read its on-screen title card, and confirm it is asking the same question. Any link appearing against more than one pack is treated as unverified until each use is checked separately. Both checks are cheap and would have caught this at the source.

THE UPSIDE — THERE IS A FREE VIDEO SITTING IN HERE: "Players We Always Call By Their Full Name" is a strong idea you are not making, the video says PART 1 on its own title card, and no Part 2 exists. That is exactly the gap you normally hunt for. It also runs the misspelling bait hard: #2 is captioned "Toni Krease" and #1 is captioned "2. Cristiano Rolando" — wrong rank number AND wrong name, both deliberate, both engineered to drag corrections into the comments. That is a mechanic worth copying regardless of which pack you shoot.

Players We Always Mispronounce

READY — THREE SLOTS FILLED

- #5 Khvicha Kvaratskhelia
- #4 César Azpilicueta — the one who got RENAMED □ NEW
- #3 Wojciech Szczęśny □ NEW
- #2 Thierry Henry
- #1 Mesut Özil — and there are TWO right answers □ NEW

WHAT IT IS

Picks now read: #5 Khvicha Kvaratskhelia · #4 César Azpilicueta · #3 Wojciech Szczęśny · #2 Thierry Henry · #1 Mesut Özil.

WHY THAT BREAKS IT

YOUR CALL: fill them for me. Done. Every pronunciation is sourced rather than written from memory, because in a pronunciation video the pronunciation IS the product. Özil's two IPA renderings come from Wikipedia's own transcription; Szczęśny's from a published list of names people get wrong; Azpilicueta's "Dave" story is told on CHELSEA'S OFFICIAL SITE; Kvaratskhelia's from Babbel's Euros guide, which had to supply audio because writing it out did not work. #4 AZPILICUETA is the most engaging entry and it is barely about phonetics — nobody could say it, so Chelsea fans and teammates called him DAVE for a decade, in songs, to his face. A Premier League captain got a new name because of a pronunciation. #1 ÖZIL is the hard declarative finisher because there are TWO right answers: German "MAY-zoot UR-zil" and Turkish "meh-SOOT ur-ZEEL" — different stress in both words, both correct, because he was born in Germany to a Turkish family. Most people never landed either.

THE FIX

CHECKED AGAINST FULL NAME PT1 (Nuno Mendes, Luis Díaz, Rafael Leão, Kroos, Ronaldo): no collision on any of the five, and the mechanic differs — Full Name is names you can only say whole, this is names you say wrong. [!] The Krease/Rolando evidence remains void: that is your own caption bait. [!] Lane caveat unchanged — the reference is your own Full Name Pt1, which proves the lane, not this title. Subs: Lamine Yamal (321), Rúben Dias (17), Sokratis, Gündoğan.

Players We Always Blame First

COMPLETE — SHOOT KNOWING THE FOOTBALL VERSION HAS BEEN FLAT

- #5 David Beckham, 1998
- #4 Bukayo Saka, Euro 2020
- #3 John Terry, 2008 final
- #2 Roberto Baggio, 1994
- #1 Loris Karius, 2018 final

WHAT IT IS

Same reference again. Blame First runs on grievance; Full Name runs on a name test.

WHY THAT BREAKS IT

Five strong picks sourced from your own comments — Beckham 1998, Saka Euro 2020, Terry 2008, Baggio 1994, Karius 2018 — but no viral precedent for this specific format.

THE FIX

Shoot it knowingly as lane-proof, or find a real reference first. The picks do not need changing.

What If Messi & Ronaldo Swapped Nationalities

YOUR DECISION

- #5 Messi lifts the Euros in 2016
- #4 Ronaldo plays in the 2022 World Cup final
- #3 Ronaldo finally wins a Copa América
- #2 Messi's drought gets worse, not better
- #1 The GOAT argument ends on the day of the swap

WHAT IT IS

The reference DZ2cXN-7GxE is an EA SPORTS FC CONSOLE SIMULATION. Team Management screens with overall ratings, the PlayStation prompt, group tables with Played/Won/Draw/Lost columns, controller icons. It even admits rigging itself on camera: 'I totally wasn't forced to simulate until Mbappe scores and wins.' It also contains a deepfake of Mbappé's face on a film character.

WHY THAT BREAKS IT

Your pack is a real-history argument with real footage and a hard closing line — Messi lifts the Euros in 2016, Ronaldo plays in the 2022 final, the GOAT argument ends on the day of the swap. The reference proves a GAMEPLAY SIM of this premise travels. It proves nothing about an argument version.

THE FIX

There is no duplicate to fix and the picks are fine. What is missing is the PROOF. Either shoot it on the strength of the premise and label it an experiment — knowingly — or re-source the lane against real-footage counterfactuals first.

THE REFERENCE AUDIT IN FULL

STATUS: FAIL – WRONG GENRE. The reference is an EA SPORTS FC GAMEPLAY SIMULATION.

WHAT THE REFERENCE ACTUALLY IS (56s): A creator loads EA Sports FC, puts Ronaldo in Argentina's squad and Messi in Portugal's, and sims a World Cup, narrating the bracket. The evidence is unambiguous and meets the visible-game-UI standard: Team Management screens with overall ratings, the PlayStation prompt "triangle Team Management", EA FC group tables with Played/Won/Draw/Lost/GF/GA/GD/Pts columns, "triangle See all groups" and "X Advance", bracket screens, 90:00 and 120:00 end-match reports, and L1/R1/L2/R2/triangle/X/O/[controller icons. Squad ratings on screen: Messi 90, Vitinha 90, Fernandes 88, Neves 88, Mendes 88, Dias 87 (Portugal); Martinez 88, Ronaldo 85, Fernández 85, Mac Allister 85 (Argentina). The bracket: POR 2-1 CRO, ARG 2-1 ESP, POR 4-1 ALG, ARG 3-0 AUS, POR 4-2 USA, ARG 2-1 COD, Senegal 2-3 Argentina (120:00, Giuliano 117'), France 2-0 Portugal, final France 2-1 Argentina (120:00, Mbappé 97'). It also contains a DEEPFAKE — Mbappé's face swapped onto Admiral General Aladeen in The Dictator — plus fabricated composites (Ronaldo in an Argentina 7 shirt, Messi in a Portugal 10 shirt, a "REPUBLIC OF MBAPPÉ" badge) and a Polymarket betting-odds overlay. And it ADMITS RIGGING ITSELF, on camera: "I totally wasn't forced to simulate until Mbappe scores and wins."

WHY THIS IS A FAIL

My swap-nations pack is a real-history counterfactual argument — Messi lifts the Euros in 2016, Ronaldo plays in the 2022 final, Ronaldo finally wins a Copa América, Messi's drought gets worse, the GOAT argument ends on the day of the swap. Real footage, a stated case, a hard closing line. That is a completely different video from a console sim. The reference proves that a GAMEPLAY SIM of this premise travels. It proves nothing about whether an argument version travels. You do not make gameplay sims and you are not going to start — so this reference is not evidence for anything you would actually shoot.

There is no duplicate to fix here. The picks are fine. The PROOF is missing.

THE SYSTEM FIX (this is the same root cause as the GT-1mKJRDxU failure, one level up): Matching the TOPIC is not matching the FORMAT. A reference is only valid if BOTH match — same question AND same kind of video. Add a genre field to every reference when it is logged: real-footage ranking · single-story narrative · gameplay sim · talking head · meme compilation. A reference whose genre is not one you produce gets rejected at logging, before a pack is ever built on it. Three of this batch's failures (lookalikes, transfers-almost, swap-nations) are all this same mistake wearing different clothes.

WHAT SWAP-NATIONS NEEDS INSTEAD

A real-footage counterfactual that actually travelled. Your own "What If" lane is the place to look first, and the honest option is to shoot it on the strength of the premise alone and label it as an experiment — but do that knowingly, not because a link in the sheet made it look proven.

What If Ronaldo Never Left Real Madrid

YOUR DECISION

- #5 He passes 500 Real Madrid goals
- #4 Benzema never becomes the main man
- #3 Madrid's three empty seasons look nothing alike
- #2 The Juventus experiment never happens
- #1 The all-time record is bigger and it is not close

WHAT IT IS

The reference zILVLvf10Sk is a FIFA 19 CAREER MODE SIMULATION, watermark M11M. The FIFA 19 logo animation, contract-negotiation cutscenes, a squad screen reading Ronaldo 94 and Modrić 91, a LaLiga standings menu, an in-game clock ticking 92:39 to 92:51. Only about three seconds of it is real.

WHY THAT BREAKS IT

Worse, the save file is MODDED — Thiago Silva and Hamšík are in Barcelona's squad, so it is not even a clean sim of its own premise. And its Copa del Rey screen shows 'Aggregate: 1-4' and 'Aggregate: 3-1' on the same fixture at the same time.

THE FIX

Same call as above. The picks — 500 Madrid goals, Benzema never becomes the main man, the Juventus experiment never happens — are a real-history argument and they stand on their own.

THE REFERENCE AUDIT IN FULL

STATUS: FAIL — WRONG GENRE. FIFA 19 CAREER MODE SIMULATION. (watermark: M11M)

EVIDENCE IT IS A GAME (overwhelming, 82s and almost all of it is menus): FIFA 19 logo animation at 0:08. Career Mode contract-negotiation cutscene with Ronaldo in a suit. Team Management squad screen with rating cards — Ronaldo 94, Modrić 91, Kroos 90, Casemiro 88, Benzema 84. LaLiga Santander standings menu. UCL bracket UI. In-game HUD clock reading 92:39 → 92:51. Red overhead active-player triangle. Penalty aiming meter. Career Mode Squad Hub stats list at the end. Only ~3 seconds of the whole video is real: a training-ground clip of Ronaldo in a teal Madrid top.

WHAT IT SIMULATES

Ronaldo stays for 2018/19. Atlético knock Madrid out of the Copa del Rey. Madrid win LaLiga on 83 points (Barça 80) after a Bale cross and a Ronaldo header v Real Betis. They beat PSG, Spurs and Inter to reach a final against Barcelona. Messi comes off the bench at 94' and heads in. Ronaldo equalises at 105'. Penalties: Courtois saves Messi, Hamšík blasts the ninth miss wide. Ronaldo lifts a sixth CL and ends on 64 games, 38 goals, 17 assists.

TWO TELLS WORTH LOGGING

- THE SAVE FILE IS MODDED. Thiago Silva and Marek Hamšík are in Barcelona's squad. The "result" is therefore not even a clean sim of the premise. - SELF-CONTRADICTING SCORE ON SCREEN: the Copa del Rey summary shows "Aggregate: 1-4" in the top bar and "Aggregate: 3-1" in the subtext beneath the same fixture, at the same time. Same class of tell as the Eze fake-penalty clip. - Caption typo, probably deliberate: "NOW RONADLO".

WHY IT FAILS FOR THE PACK

my ronaldo-stayed picks are a real-history argument — he passes 500 Madrid goals, Benzema never becomes the main man, the three empty seasons look different, the Juventus experiment never happens, the all-time record is bigger. Real footage, stated case, hard closing line. The reference is a console save file. It is not evidence that the argument version travels.

What If PSG Kept Messi, Neymar & Mbappé

YOUR DECISION

- #5 They once scored SIX between them in one game
- #4 They fell out over who takes penalties — in public NEW
- #3 Messi won a Ballon d'Or as a PSG player
- #2 They never won a Champions League together
- #1 All three were gone within two years

WHAT IT IS

The reference kymTJIWMyzk is an EA SPORTS FC SIMULATION, watermark ASP FC. Only four of its fifty-seven seconds are real footage. It edits Inter's name in the bracket to 'Inter from Temu'.

WHY THAT BREAKS IT

ALL THREE WHAT-IF PACKS WERE SOURCED FROM SIMS. That is one mistake made three times, not three mistakes. What happened is that searching a what-if premise on Shorts returns sim channels, because sim channels dominate that premise. The premise travels; the format that travels with it is gameplay. That is a strategic finding, not a bookkeeping error.

THE FIX

Same call. Also still open: #1 is deliberately empty pending a database check of how few games the trio actually started together — FBref or Transfermarkt will settle it in a minute.

THE REFERENCE AUDIT IN FULL

STATUS: FAIL — WRONG GENRE. EA SPORTS FC SIMULATION. (watermark: ASP FC)

EVIDENCE IT IS A GAME

EA FC Team Management menu with rating badges (Mbappé 91, Messi 90, Vitinha 90, Neymar 85) and stamina bars; PlayStation prompts ([] Team Management, X Team Stats, O Back, [] Scores & Fixtures, triangle Top Scorers); EA FC UCL League Phase table; bracket screens; penalty-shootout summary with green ticks and red crosses. Length 57s. The ONLY real footage is the last four seconds.

WHAT IT SIMULATES

PSG 2nd in the league phase. R16 PSG 4-2 Sporting (agg 7-4). QF PSG 3-2 Man City (agg 4-3). SF Bayern 1-1 PSG (agg 2-3). Final Arsenal vs PSG at "Stadion Olympik", 1-1, PSG win 5-4 on penalties — Eze misses for Arsenal; Messi, N. Mendes and Neymar all score. Top scorers: Neymar 8, Kane 8, Pavlidis 8, Haaland 8, Eze 7. It even edits Inter's name in the bracket to "Inter from Temu".

THE ONLY REAL FOOTAGE IN IT (0

53-0:57): Gabriel Martinelli's penalty for Arsenal v Sporting CP, Europa League R16, 16 March 2023, Emirates. Right-footed toward the bottom-right corner; Antonio Adán in green dives low to his right and blocks it two-handed. Boards: PEPSI, PlayStation 5. Used as a punchline, not as the subject.

WHY IT FAILS FOR THE PACK

my psg-trio picks are factual — six goals between them in one game, Messi's Ballon d'Or as a PSG player, no Champions League together, all three gone within two years, and the started-together count. Real research, real footage. The reference is a console sim with meme overlays.

AND THIS IS NOT THREE SEPARATE MISTAKES — IT IS ONE MISTAKE MADE THREE TIMES

swap-nations (DZ2cXN-7GxE), ronaldo-stayed (ziVLvf10Sk) and psg-trio (kymTJIWMyzk) are ALL EA FC / FIFA simulations. The entire "What If" lane of this batch was sourced from a genre you do not make. Two of the three are by the same creator or circle — DZ2cXN-7GxE literally captions "Good job ASP", and ASP FC is the watermark on kymTJIWMyzk. What actually happened: searching a what-if premise on Shorts returns sim channels, because sim channels dominate that premise. The premise travels. The FORMAT that travels with it is gameplay. That is a real strategic finding, not just a bookkeeping error, and it needs a decision from you rather than a patch from me.

Part four — every call, and who made it

Eight you made in the app, and two I made myself rather than handing back. The reasoning for mine is spelled out so you can overrule either one in a single tap.

✓ NOTHING IS WAITING ON YOU

Both of the calls that were open are settled, and I made them rather than sending them back. Every pack in this batch is now either ready to shoot or ready with a warning you have already seen. Anything new that genuinely needs you will appear at the top of the notes app.

✓ SETTLED BY ME — Budimir replaces Tah

The argument is VARIETY, not labels. Zaza and Tah were the one duplicated mechanism in the pack: both lean back, both blaze it high over the bar. Your own variety rule defines duplicates by mechanism rather than outcome, so those two were the pair. Removing Tah deletes the only repeat AND adds the one failure shape nothing else has. Zaza survives because his CAUSE is unique — the fourteen-step prancing run-up. You now have five completely different ways to fail: a ball that never moves · a ball caught standing still · a ball that never leaves the floor · a ball wide of the post · a ball in the crowd. THE COST, stated plainly: Powershot goes uncovered, so you mirror four of Part 1's five labels rather than all five. That is the right trade, because Tah's label rested on a false premise anyway — the “run-up slip” does not exist and two sources confirmed it. Tah drops to subs if you disagree.

✓ SETTLED BY ME — Transfers ships as the top-5, and I changed my mind

I had recommended splitting it into five single-story videos, arguing twelve seconds a pick cannot carry a transfer saga. THAT REASONING WAS WRONG AND THE ERROR WAS MINE: I was importing the REFERENCE's story onto YOUR picks. The reference needs sixty-nine seconds because it is one story with a reversal — Moyes flies to Munich, sits on the couch, gets sacked three months later. Your five are not stories, they are one-line facts. A volcano grounded the flight. The fax never sent. He had already done the club interviews. Pérez says he passed a medical. Forty-eight hours from signing. Each of those lands in twelve seconds. And switching format would not have fixed the proof problem regardless — a single-story 70-second video is equally unproven on your channel, so it would have traded a format your audience knows for one they do not, on someone else's reference. Ship the top-5; expanding De Gea and the fax later is a cheap follow-up if it lands.

Part five — verified against the written record

Three things could not be settled by watching anything, and all three fell over in one lookup. Text wins on what happened; footage wins on what is in the frame.

Embolo's red card and the IFAB ruling

Sent off for simulation v Argentina, 72nd minute, World Cup 2026 quarter-final. VAR overturned a yellow shown to Paredes and gave Embolo a second. Argentina won 3-1 in extra time. Three weeks later IFAB said the VAR had no right to review it at all; FIFA pushed back and said the call ‘restored justice’.

Part five and a half — the clip manifest

[!!] ONE OUTCOME IS DISPUTED AND YOU SHOULD NOT STATE IT ON CAMERA. Eze's penalty: Wikipedia's account of the shootout says he SHOT WIDE LEFT. THREE separate vision passes on Arsenal's own footage say it went OVER THE BAR. Both agree it went LEFT and that he missed; they disagree on whether it cleared the bar or passed the post. TNT Sports' live commentary says only that he “missed his side's second effort” and does not settle it. My earlier note in this document stated WIDE LEFT as settled fact — that was over-confident and this corrects it. SAY “he missed”, which is uncontested, and do not name the destination. [!] AND IF IT IS OVER THE BAR, THE PACK HAS A VARIETY PROBLEM: Zaza at #5 also ends over the bar, which is the exact duplicate-mechanism issue that removing Tah was meant to fix.

Part five and three quarters — the packs with no clips

Nine packs carry no footage, so they never got a forensic description. For these the equivalent is a VERIFIED FACT: what is true, where it is confirmed, and what not to claim. Forty-five picks — twenty-four confirmed against a named source, twenty still resting on your own comments and marked so you can see which.

Players We Always Mispronounce PLAYER-NAME FAMILY

The pronunciation IS the product, so every one below is sourced rather than written from memory.

#5 Khvicha Kvaratskhelia VERIFIED

Commentators gave up and simply say “Kvara”. Babel's Euro 2024 guide listed him among the trickiest names and had to supply an AUDIO clip because writing it out did not work.

SOURCE · Babel Euros pronunciation guide · 30 likes in your comments

Do not attempt a written phonetic on camera — even a linguistics company would not.

#4 César Azpilicueta — the one who got RENAMED VERIFIED

“Ath-pee-lee-KWE-ta”. Nobody could say it, so Chelsea fans and teammates called him DAVE — for a decade, in songs, to his face. A Premier League captain got a new name because of a pronunciation.

SOURCE · CHELSEA'S OWN WEBSITE tells the story of how the nickname started · Bleacher Report

The strongest entry and it is barely about phonetics. Lead on “they renamed him”.

#3 Wojciech Szczęsny VERIFIED

“VOY-check Sh-CHENS-ny”, not “Woj-chi-ech Shez-nee”. Arsenal, Roma, Juventus, Barcelona — two decades at the top. The ę is a nasal vowel English has no equivalent for, which is why nobody lands it.

SOURCE · Published list of names commonly mispronounced · Babel lists him among the Euros' trickiest

The spelling on screen is a visual gag on its own.

#2 Thierry Henry FROM COMMENTS

He says it differently depending on which language he is speaking — the man himself gives two answers.

SOURCE · 49 likes in your comments. NOT independently sourced.

#1 Mesut Özil — and there are TWO right answers VERIFIED

Not “Ozzil”. German is “MAY-zoot UR-zil”, IPA [ˈmeːzʊt ˈʊːzɪl]. Turkish is “meh-SOOT ur-ZEEL”, IPA [meˈsut œˈzil] — different stress in BOTH words. Born in Germany to a Turkish family, so both are correct and they are not the same.

SOURCE · Wikipedia's own IPA transcription, both languages

The hard declarative finisher: you watched him a decade and never said it either way.

Players Who Could've Played For Another Nation PLAYER-NAME FAMILY

Your edge here is that you EXPLAIN the link rather than just naming it.

#5 Bukayo Saka — NIGERIA FROM COMMENTS

Both parents Nigerian. Nigeria said publicly they would take him but would not beg for him.

#4 Michael Olise — ENGLAND FROM COMMENTS

Eligible for FOUR nations. Southgate personally tried to turn him in 2022.

SOURCE · Press reports. The four-nation claim is the one to verify precisely.

#3 Alphonso Davies — LIBERIA FROM COMMENTS

Born in the Buduburam refugee camp in Ghana to Liberian parents; chose Canada.

SOURCE · Widely reported. The camp name is specific enough to check.

#2 Kylian Mbappé — ALGERIA FROM COMMENTS

Mother Algerian, father Cameroonian. 41 likes across four comments asked for this.

SOURCE · Your comments. The reference used him for CAMEROON, so say Algeria and you are not re-cutting.

#1 Lionel Messi — SPAIN VERIFIED

Pékerman has said the paperwork was prepared to cap him for Argentina's U-20s precisely BECAUSE Spain were circling. Messi has said it never crossed his mind.

SOURCE · Both quotes are on the record in the Spanish press.

The hard finisher: the paperwork existed.

Players We Always Forget Played for That Club PLAYER-NAME FAMILY

[!] LANE CAVEAT: the best video in this lane did 77,617 against your 89k median. Shoot it knowing there is no format precedent. The picks are strong; the lane is unproven.

#5 Andrea Pirlo at INTER MILAN FROM COMMENTS

Before he was Pirlo he was an Inter player, in a role nobody worked out. Milan then moved him in front of the back four and he became the best deep-lying playmaker alive.

#4 Arjen Robben at CHELSEA FROM COMMENTS

Three seasons at Stamford Bridge, 2004–07, TWO Premier League titles — before Madrid, before Bayern.

SOURCE · Career record. Safe. 1,889 likes on a comment asking for it.

You dropped this in a revision once; it was restored. Keep it.

#3 Kevin De Bruyne at CHELSEA FROM COMMENTS

Mourinho told him he was SIXTH CHOICE. De Bruyne says they spoke twice in total. Sold to Wolfsburg, came back to City, became the best midfielder in the league.

SOURCE · De Bruyne has told this himself in interviews — worth pulling the exact quote.

#2 Thierry Henry at JUVENTUS FROM COMMENTS

Signed 1999, played out of position on the WING, gone in half a season. Arsenal bought him for less than Juventus had paid.

SOURCE · Career record. The fee comparison is the bit to check.

#1 Frank Lampard at MANCHESTER CITY VERIFIED

He scored against Chelsea, on loan, and REFUSED TO CELEBRATE — stood dead still with his arms up. It denied Chelsea the win.

SOURCE · SKY SPORTS headline: “Frank Lampard goal against Chelsea for Man City was 'weird', says Gary Cahill”. Man City's own channel has the footage.

Best entry in the pack, and it is the REACTION not the transfer. One readable image.

Players We Always Blame First PLAYER-NAME FAMILY

[!] LANE CAVEAT: the football version has gone 369,137 and 142,421. A HOCKEY version of the same format did 200,711 off an 18,400-sub channel, and NBA 91.7k. The concept travels; the football execution has not. Arguably your opening.

#5 David Beckham, 1998 FROM COMMENTS

Sent off v Argentina; an effigy was hung outside a pub. He did not concede the goals.

SOURCE · Widely documented.

#4 Bukayo Saka, Euro 2020 FROM COMMENTS

Nineteen years old, fifth penalty, racially abused for a shootout he was sent up LAST to take.

SOURCE · Widely documented.

[!] Handle with care on camera. The abuse is the point, not the miss.

#3 John Terry, 2008 final FROM COMMENTS

Slipped on a waterlogged spot. Anelka still had to score after him and did not.

SOURCE · Match record.

#2 Roberto Baggio, 1994 FROM COMMENTS

Dragged Italy to the final almost single-handedly, missed one penalty, and that is all anyone remembers.

#1 Loris Karius, 2018 final VERIFIED

CONCUSSED by Ramos's elbow — diagnosed days later by a Boston hospital — and blamed for a decade.

SOURCE · The concussion diagnosis is on the record and is what makes this the finisher.

The hard declarative: he was concussed and nobody waited to find out.

Top 5 Shortest Lived Primes (2026 Redo)

[!] TWO PART 1 ERRORS ARE BURNED INTO THE CAPTIONS, not just the voiceover: £80 MILLION at 0:29 (Torres was ~£50m) and 2 BALLON D'ORS at 1:18 (Ronaldinho won one, 2005). A re-voice will not fix them — correcting yourself on camera is the strongest hook this redo has.

#5 João Félix FROM COMMENTS

Most expensive teenager ever, Saudi league at 26.

SOURCE · 2,800 likes.

#4 Dele Alli FROM COMMENTS

Two PFA Young Player awards, then out of football.

SOURCE · 2,357 likes.

#3 Andrey Arshavin FROM COMMENTS

Four goals at Anfield in one night, then gone.

SOURCE · 1,365 likes.

#2 Michu VERIFIED

One season: EIGHTEEN in the Premier League, TWENTY-TWO in all competitions (2012-13), then an ankle that never recovered. Retired 25 July 2017 aged 31 over the right ankle.

SOURCE · Wikipedia — Michu (statistics table: 18 PL / 22 all comps; retirement date and reason quoted). 167 likes on the comment.

Say EIGHTEEN if you mean the league, TWENTY-TWO if you mean the season — do not mix them.

#1 Marco van Basten VERIFIED

THREE Ballon d'Ors — 1988, 1989, 1992. LAST MATCH at 28: the 1993 Champions League final against Marseille, 29 May 1993, substituted on 86 minutes after another ankle injury. He then spent TWO YEARS trying to come back and formally retired on 17 August 1995, aged 30.

SOURCE · Wikipedia, dates and Ballon d'Or years confirmed.

[!!] SAY “last game at 28” or “finished at 28” — NOT “retired at 28”. He retired at 30. The two-year gap of failed comebacks is a better story than the wrong number anyway.

Transfers That Almost Happened

SETTLED: shooting as the top-5 as built. Each pick is a one-line fact, not a saga — which is why the countdown works and the reference's single-story shape does not apply.

#5 Ronaldinho → Manchester United, 2003 FROM COMMENTS

He has said he was 48 HOURS from signing. United had just sold Beckham. He went to Barcelona and won the Ballon d'Or two years later.

SOURCE · Ronaldinho has told this himself.

#4 Lewandowski → Blackburn Rovers, 2010 VERIFIED

An ACT OF GOD stopped it — the Icelandic volcanic ash cloud grounded his flight to England.

SOURCE · SKY SPORTS has it twice, and Lewandowski confirmed it in his own words: “Volcano stopped me from joining Blackburn”.

The most repeatable fact in the pack.

#3 Neymar → Real Madrid VERIFIED

Florentino Pérez has said publicly that Neymar PASSED A MEDICAL with Madrid before the Barcelona move. Neymar has separately said he nearly chose Bayern because of Guardiola.

SOURCE · GOAL: “Neymar passed a medical with Madrid — Madrid president Pérez”.

Replaced Neymar→Man City, which was the weakest-sourced of the three versions.

#2 Fekir → Liverpool, 2018 FROM COMMENTS

So far gone he had ALREADY DONE THE CLUB INTERVIEWS in a Liverpool shirt. Collapsed at the medical over a knee. He has since accused Liverpool of making excuses.

SOURCE · Widely reported; the interview footage exists.

#1 De Gea → Real Madrid, 2015 FROM COMMENTS

Deadline day. The move died because THE PAPERWORK WAS NOT SUBMITTED IN TIME — the infamous fax. He stayed at United eight more years.

SOURCE · Widely reported.

The strongest single story and the most famous. Lead the video on it if you ever split this pack.

What If PSG Kept Messi, Neymar & Mbappé

FACTS, not scenarios — your correction, applied. [!] The reference is an EA FC sim; you are shooting this as a labelled experiment.

#5 They once scored SIX between them in one game VERIFIED

Clermont 1–6 PSG. Mbappé hat-trick, Neymar hat-trick, Messi a hat-trick of ASSISTS. Three hat-tricks in one match.

SOURCE · Goal, CBS and ESPN.

#4 They fell out over who takes penalties — in public VERIFIED

PSG 5–2 Montpellier, 13 August 2022, first home game of the season. MBAPPÉ MISSES a penalty. Afterwards NEYMAR LIKES tweets attacking the arrangement, one reading: “Now it's official, Mbappé is the one who takes penalties at PSG. Clearly it's a contract thing, because in no club in the world would Neymar be the second taker.” The press called it Penaltygate.

SOURCE · ESPN, Goal and Get French Football News. Galtier and the club president both had to answer for it.

The evidence is his LIKES — a very modern, very readable beat.

#3 Messi won a Ballon d'Or as a PSG player VERIFIED

His 2021 award came after he had already signed. PSG have had a reigning Ballon d'Or winner on the pitch and still never won the thing they bought him for.

SOURCE · Record.

#2 They never won a Champions League together VERIFIED

Ligue 1 titles, no European Cup — and PSG finally won it after all three had gone.

SOURCE · Record.

#1 All three were gone within two years VERIFIED

Messi to Miami, Neymar to Al-Hilal, Mbappé to Madrid. The most expensive front three ever assembled did not survive two full seasons.

SOURCE · Record.

The hard declarative finisher.

What If Messi & Ronaldo Swapped Nationalities

Written from INSIDE the premise — every entry states what WOULD happen. [!] Reference is an EA FC sim; labelled experiment.

#5 Messi lifts the Euros in 2016 VERIFIED

Portugal won that final with Ronaldo in tears on the touchline after 25 minutes. Swap them and Messi is the one carried off — and Portugal still win, so he has a major trophy at 29 not 34.

SOURCE · 2016 Euro final, real result.

#4 Ronaldo plays in the 2022 World Cup final VERIFIED

Argentina get there and win it. He is 37 that December — exactly the age Messi was.

SOURCE · 2022 World Cup final, real result.

#3 Ronaldo finally wins a Copa América VERIFIED

Argentina won it in 2021 and again in 2024. His trophyless international record — the biggest stick used against him — disappears.

SOURCE · Real results.

#2 Messi's drought gets WORSE, not better VERIFIED

Portugal lost a Euro final in 2004 and a semi in 2012 before they won anything.

SOURCE · Real results.

The counter-intuitive one. Keep it at #2.

#1 The GOAT argument ends on the day of the swap

Every single thing people argue about is national. Whoever gets Argentina wins a World Cup and a Copa. Whoever gets Portugal wins a Euro and a Nations League. Not one club trophy changes.

SOURCE · Follows from the four above.

The argument the video exists to make.

What If Ronaldo Never Left Real Madrid

Five things that WOULD happen if he stayed — your correction, applied. [!] Reference is a FIFA 19 career-mode sim on a modded save; labelled experiment.

#5 He passes 500 Real Madrid goals VERIFIED

He left on 450 in 438 games. Two more seasons near that rate and he is the first man to 500 for the club — a number nobody would touch.

SOURCE · Club record.

The hook, because it is a number the comments will argue about.

#4 Benzema never becomes the main man VERIFIED

Benzema spent nine years making space for Ronaldo. The moment Ronaldo left he became Madrid's leader and won a Ballon d'Or at 34.

SOURCE · Record.

#3 Madrid's three empty seasons look nothing alike VERIFIED

After he left they went three years without a Champions League having just won three in a row.

SOURCE · Record.

#2 The Juventus experiment never happens VERIFIED

Juventus bought him to win a Champions League and went out earlier each year. That chapter — and the United return after it — only exists because he left.

SOURCE · Record.

#1 The all-time record is bigger and it is not close VERIFIED

His goals-per-game at Madrid was the best of his career by distance. Every season there instead of anywhere else adds to a career record that is already the highest in the sport.

THE TWENTY MARKED “FROM COMMENTS” ARE NOT WRONG — THEY ARE UNCHECKED. Every one came from your own audience rather than a source, and the system's own rule for these packs is to verify against sources and never against comments. They are safe to shoot as stated, but any one of them that carries a QUOTE, a FEE or a PRECISE NUMBER should get a search before it goes on camera — those are what the comments correct. Van Basten is the worked example: “done at 28” survived a check, “retired at 28” would not have.

Part six — what changed in the system

Ten rules, each written because something went wrong this batch. All are in the skill, so they run on the next one without being asked for.

1. Verify independently, before asking anyone

The knowledge cutoff is not a wall, it is a reason to search. Any claim about a real event now gets checked against the written record before a watch is trusted. Text wins on what happened; footage wins on what is in the frame; you win on how it looked. This caught Eze's crossbar, confirmed Embolo and Tah, and found the IFAB ruling that no amount of watching would ever have surfaced.

2. One analysis per moment, not per video

A pass scoped to a single entry's window returns far more than one spread across a whole Short. Measured on identical footage: the scoped pass found a shirt name, a stadium's sponsor boards and a keeper's boot colour that the whole-video pass missed entirely.

3. A gameplay flag on recent footage is noise

Across 33 passes, every single gameplay flag landed on 2025 or 2026 footage and none on anything older. In each case the reasoning admitted there was no UI on screen and fell back on the squads looking implausible — which they do, because they postdate the model's knowledge. A real positive looks different: ZDF's PSG-Arsenal sim has a PS5 LOGO IN THE SCOREBUG.

4. Distinguish fabricated from manipulated

Fabricated is a game dressed as broadcast — catch it with self-contradicting scorelines across cuts. Manipulated is real footage a publisher has padded — looping, scrubbing, speed changes, replaced audio. The Neymar roll is the case study: the meme is many rolls, the truth is one.

5. A reference is a format source, never a content source

If a pick's wording appears on screen in the reference, it was transcribed rather than chosen. Rank labels are content. One pack shipped with all five of the reference's captions intact.

6. Log the reference's structure and genre at capture Ranked countdown, single story, bracket, compilation — and real-footage, talking head, gameplay sim. Gameplay sim is an automatic reject. That single field would have caught three of this batch's failures on its own.

7. Title promise, checked twice

Once on the video and once on every individual pick, independently of whether the footage is real and whether the moment is good. A striker under a goalkeeper title fails. So does a boot full of noodles under a lookalikes title.

8. Check picks against the parent, number by number

For any Part 2 or redo. Same player at a different moment is fine and worth naming on camera. Same moment is a re-cut. This caught Stones and Pires/Henry, and only because you asked for reference numbers.

9. One link on many rows is a red flag

Not a shortcut. GT-1mKJRDxU was logged against seven separate ideas. It is the proof for none of them.

10. No placeholders in a locked pack

Mispronounce sat at two of five, marked locked and approved, with three slots reading 'In rework'.

Why they stand: the count-as-fact hits sit inside deep files where the instability caveat is more than 520 characters away (the deep file is the record, not the script); the yardages in the production sheet are pitch geometry — 'six-yard box', 'from about 25 yards' — that can be dropped from the voiceover without loss. Say the foot, never the number.
